Acknowledgments

This book is dedicated to my accent reduction students who came to the United States from all parts of the globe. Their drive to excel, passion for learning, amazing work ethic, and belief in the American dream have inspired me to write this book. In the words of Henry David Thoreau, “Go confidently in the direction of your dreams. Live the life you have imagined.”

Thanks to all of the supportive and extremely professional people at Barron’s: Dimitry Popow, my editor; Wayne Barr for seeking me out to write this book; and Veronica Douglas for her support.

I am enormously grateful to Lou Savage, “The Voice.” His is the beautiful male voice on the recordings. He was also responsible for all of the expert audio engineering and audio editing. Thank you, Lou, for being such a perfectionist with the sound and insisting on fixing the audio “mistakes” I couldn’t hear anyway.

I am also grateful for the contributions of Maryam Meghan, Jack Cumming, Katarina Matolek, Mauricio Sanchez, Sabrina Stoll, Sonya Kahn, Jennie Lo, Yvette Basica, Marc Basica, and Laura Tien.

Introduction

This book will help non-native speakers of English learn to speak with an American accent.

Which American Accent Will This Book Teach Me?

You will learn to produce the standard American accent. Some people also call it “broadcaster English.” It’s the kind of standard, neutral speech that you hear on CNN and in educated circles. It’s a non-regional American accent, meaning that people do not associate the dialect with any particular part of the United States. It is the accent most commonly associated with educated people in the American East, Midwest, and West.

How Should I Practice?

Listen to the recorded material over and over. You will hear words and sentences pronounced followed by a pause for you to repeat after the speaker. You may want to record yourself repeating so that you can compare your accent to the accents of the speakers on this audio. Then practice the new sounds in real-life situations.

There are numerous study tips throughout the book, both from the writer and from her many successful students who have greatly improved their American accent. For an individual professional analysis of your accent which will help you to study accent reduction more efficiently and tell you which sections of this book you should focus on most, please contact us at 1-800-871-1317 or visit our website at: masteringtheamericanaccent.com.

THE VOWEL SOUNDS

In this chapter you will learn how to accurately pronounce all of the main American English vowel sounds. The English alphabet has five vowels, a, e, i, o and u, but it has about 15 main vowel sounds. For some learners this is one of the most difficult aspects of American English to master. Speakers of languages with fewer vowel sounds are likely to speak English using only the same number of sounds that exist in their native language. Sometimes they do not even hear the distinction between certain sounds in English. Consequently, non-native speakers might pronounce “hill” and “heal” the same way. Similarly, the words sell and sale, or cup, cop, and cap may also sound the same when spoken by a non-native speaker.

Because there is not always a direct relationship between how a word is spelled and how it is pronounced, you should become familiar with the phonetic symbols that represent the sounds that you are learning. This way, you will be able to use your dictionary when you come across a word that contains a vowel sound that you don’t know how to pronounce. Make sure you also become familiar with the phonetic symbols of your dictionary as they may be a bit different from the symbols that this book uses.

Main Vowel Sounds of American English

1. /i/	read, heat, meet, seat, seen, feet	Please ea t the mea t and the chee se before you lea ve.

15. /ɔɪ/	oil, choice, moist, enjoy, avoid, voice	Let's a void the annoy i ng n oise.

Production of Vowels

We categorize vowels as front, middle, or back depending on which part of the tongue is used to produce the sound. For example, /i/ is a front vowel because the front part of the tongue goes up in the front of the mouth, and /u/ is a back vowel because the back of the tongue goes up in the back of the mouth. We also categorize vowels as high or low. In high vowels, the tongue is pushed up high near the roof of the mouth as in /i/, and in low vowels, the tongue is flat down at the bottom of the mouth, as in /æ/.

Diphthongs consist of two different vowel sounds that are closely joined together and treated as one vowel. They are represented by two phonetic symbols. To create this sound, move your tongue smoothly from one vowel position to another. The following vowels are diphthongs: /eɪ/ as in take, /oʊ/ as in boat, /aɪ/ as in time, /aʊ/ as in house, and /ɔɪ/ as in boy.

You will now learn how to correctly pronounce each type of vowel. Refer to the diagrams below to help you better understand the correct tongue and lip positions for these various vowel sounds.

Advice from a Successful Student

“During my drive to and from work, I always listen to audio books. The speaker’s voice is usually very clear and not sloppy like the speech I sometimes hear on the street. I listen closely to the accent of the speaker and try to imitate it. I play back certain parts over and over again. The more I do this the better my accent gets.”

VOWELS IN DETAIL

This chapter will give you more detailed knowledge of the most problematic vowel sounds for non-native speakers. You will learn to clearly distinguish between certain sounds that may have seemed very similar to you in the past, and you will learn the common spelling exceptions for some vowel sounds within frequently used words. Memorizing these exceptions will significantly improve your accent.

Review of /I/ and /i/ Sounds

"Real riches are the riches possessed inside.*"
B. C. Forbes

The /I/ sound is easy to identify because it is almost always spelled with the letter i as in big. The /i/ sound is most commonly spelled with two vowels such as ee or ea, as in meet, or team. Remember to relax your tongue and lips for the /I/ sound and to make them tense for the /i/ sound.

Warning: Dangerous Mistake

Confusing /I/ and /i/ may cause embarrassment or can even be offensive.

A Trip to France

Next January I'm planning to visit my friends in France. Last time I went there I was only ten or eleven. I would love to go back again. I am taking a class called "French for Travelers." We are memorizing vocabulary and learning the present and past tenses. I want my French to get better and I am practicing every chance I get. I rented a French film and I felt so bad because I didn't understand a word they said. I guess I will have to make extra effort. I want to learn the language and have a better accent so that people can understand me when I am asking for directions and ordering in restaurants.

Review of /ə/, /ɑ/, /ɔ/, and /ou/ Sounds

These sounds are frequently confused. Non-native speakers sometimes do not clearly distinguish the difference between cup, cop, cap, and cope.

/ə/	/ɑ/ /ɔ/	/ou/
Remember, the sound /ə/ as in fun or cup is a neutral vowel, meaning that everything in your mouth is relaxed and the lips are just very slightly open.	In contrast to the /ə/, the /ɑ/ as in father and /ɔ/ as in saw , require the mouth to be open. The sounds /ɑ/ and /ɔ/ are very similar, except that for the /ɔ/, the lips are a bit more oval in shape and the tongue is slightly tense. However, in many parts of the United States, the /ɑ/ and /ɔ/ are pronounced the same way. For example, many Americans pronounce hot and tall with the same vowel sound.	For the /ou/ sound, as in boat , the lips are rounded and tense.

DO NOT SAY

Warning: Dangerous Mistake

Confusing /ə/, /ɑ/, /ɔ/, and /ou/ may cause embarrassment or can even be offensive.

Do you mean?	Or?
/ə/	/ɔ/

Also, mispronouncing words like coke, focus, fork, and folk can cause you to say an inappropriate or offensive word.

The Problematic O

Track

Trouble is only opportunity in work clothes.
Henry Kaiser

Words spelled with the letter o can cause many frustrations for students of the American accent. You have already learned that the pronunciation of a vowel does not necessarily correspond to the spelling of the vowel. This is especially true of the letter o. The letters o in the words job, love, and only are all pronounced differently.

This quote from Helen Keller contains fourteen words spelled with the letter o and features all three different vowel pronunciations: "When one door of happiness closes, another opens; but often we look so long at the closed door that we do not see the one which has opened for us." The confusion surrounding the letter o for non-native speakers is certainly understandable!

The Neutral Sound /ə/

First, let’s look at the most problematic sound with an o spelling. It’s the neutral sound /ə/, as in love, other, and Monday, which non-native speakers frequently mispronounce as laav, ather, and Mahn day. The wrong pronunciation occurs because the /ə/ doesn’t exist in some languages and also because learners are used to this sound usually being spelled with the letter u as in up, fun, and Sunday. You will improve your American accent if you simply memorize some very common words with the neutral /ə/ sound that are spelled with an o, or ou, or even oo. Start by studying the pronunciation exceptions in the chart below.

The American /ɔ/ Sound

In American English the /ɔ/ sound as in caught and all is very similar to the /ɑ/ sound as in want or hot. In fact, these two sounds, /ɔ/ and /ɑ/, are so similar in many parts of the United States, that some language experts even claim that they are the same sound. So, while going through these lessons, if you are not able to clearly distinguish between these two vowels, don't worry about it; neither can many native speakers of American English.

CD 1
Track
83

Warning: Common Mistake

If you studied English outside of the United States, you might have learned British pronunciation. The vowel sound that is most noticeably different between British and American English is the /ɔ/. In British English, this sound is much more rounded, almost like the /oʊ/. The words “coat” and “caught” sound similar in British English but as you have learned, they are very different in American English. Let’s practice pronouncing the differences between these two sounds /ɔ/ and /oʊ/.

Study Tip

Have you ever heard Americans speak your native language? Practice imitating their accent. This will help you get in touch with the American mouth movements and sounds. For example, when Americans speak Spanish, you will notice that they often prolong the Spanish o into an /ou/ sound. “Hola amigo” often sounds like: “oula amigou.” Similarly, “my friends Ricardo and Roberto” sounds like: “my friends Ricardou and Robertou.” A similar vowel change often occurs when Americans speak French. The vowel /ɛ/ ends up sounding like /eɪ/. “Je vais au marché” can sound like: “Je veiii au marcheiii.” So, when you speak English, prolong these vowels the same way, and you will be on the right track!

Comparing /u/ and /yu/

Certain words that contain the letter u are sometimes pronounced differently in other English accents. For example, some British speakers often add an extra /y/ sound before the /u/. Students who studied British English in their native countries are often surprised to learn that Americans say “Tooz-day” (for Tuesday) instead of the British t+youz-day. Similarly, you may have learned to say “t+you+n” (for tune) rather than “toon” as Americans do.

Life is uncertain. Eat dessert first.
Ernestine Ulmer

The words work, turn, bird, and early are all spelled with a different vowel, yet the vowel sound is the same. This frequently happens when a vowel is followed by the letter r. The sound remains /əɹ/. Non-native speakers are frequently tempted to pronounce the vowels as they are spelled, and they make the common mistakes of saying “wore+k” instead of “were +k” (for work) and “two+ɹn” instead of turn. Sometimes they will even pronounce bird as “beer +d.”

CONSONANTS

This chapter will teach you how to form all of the consonant sounds of American English. You can either study this chapter first to get an in-depth understanding of how consonants are formed, or you can just skip to the next chapter (“Problematic Consonants”) and begin practicing the most difficult sounds for non-native speakers. Make sure that you also refer to the “Native Language Guide” at the end of the book, which will tell you which specific consonant sounds you need to focus on in this chapter and in the following one.

Forming American Consonants

When you are learning another accent, it is very helpful to know how the instruments of the mouth work together to produce sound. One reason that you have an accent when you are speaking English is that you are likely not moving your tongue and lips in the same way as a native speaker.

A consonant is a sound that is made when the airflow is blocked by either your lips or your tongue. The different places where this block may occur are called “points of articulation.” The point of articulation is, therefore, a point of contact of one part of your mouth with another part. For example, when you produce the sound /p/ (which is spelled with the letter p) your lips come together and close shut. So, the points of contact here are your two lips. The sound /b/ (which is spelled with a letter b) is also produced by your lips touching, as is the sound /m/.

Sometimes the points of contact, or points of articulation, occur when the tip of your tongue touches directly behind the upper teeth, a part of your mouth called the gum ridge. The sounds that are produced at this point are /t/, /d/, /n/, and /l/. Another point of contact occurs when the back part of your tongue touches the back part of your mouth, near the throat, as in /g/ and /k/. You don’t necessarily need to learn the formal names of the different parts of your mouth, but you should develop an awareness of where the points of contact are. Studying the illustration below will help you do this.

Voiceless and Voiced Consonants

One way that we categorize consonants is by determining whether they are “voiceless” or “voiced.” It’s important to know the difference between these types because the length of a vowel that precedes a consonant is determined by whether the consonant that follows it is voiceless or voiced. You will learn more about this later in the chapter. Also, knowing whether a sound is voiceless or voiced will help to correctly pronounce letters such as -ed and -s at the ends of words. You will learn about this in detail in the next chapter.

First, let’s learn how to distinguish between a voiced and a voiceless consonant. Place your fingers in the front, middle part of your neck. Now say /z/ as in the word zoo. Now, let’s make it longer: zzzzzzzzzz. You should feel a vibration in your vocal cords. This is how you know that the /z/ sound is voiced. Now let’s try this with the /s/ sound as in the word sat. Say /s/. Now let’s prolong it: ssssssss. This time there was no vibration in your vocal cords, so this consonant is considered unvoiced. That’s all there is to it. The tongue and lip positions of the /z/ and /s/ are identical. The only difference between them is vibration or no vibration. Look at the other consonant pairs that are produced exactly the same way, except for the vibration in the vocal cords.

Voiceless and Voiced Consonant Pairs

Voiceless Consonants (vocal cords do not vibrate)	Voiced Consonants (vocal cords vibrate)	How to Produce the Sound
/p/ pet rope	/b/ bet robe	Lips start fully together, then part quickly to produce a small release of air.
/t/ ten seat	/d/ den seed	Tip of the tongue is slightly tense as it firmly touches and then releases the gum ridge.
/k/ class back	/g/ glass bag	Back of tongue presses up against soft palate (back of mouth) and releases.
/f/ fault leaf	/v/ vault leave	Lower lips lightly touch upper teeth; vibration occurs on the lips from the flow of air created.
/θ/ thank breath	/ð/ this breathe	Tip of the tongue touches back of front teeth or edges of front teeth. Air flows out between tongue and teeth.
/s/ sink price	/z/ zinc prize	Sides of tongue touch middle and back upper teeth. Tip of tongue is lowered a bit. Air flows out of middle part of the tongue.
/ʃ/ pressure wish	/ʒ/ pleasure massage	Tip of tongue is down, sides of tongue are against upper teeth on sides of mouth. Air flows out through middle of tongue.
/tʃ/ choke rich	/dʒ/ joke ridge	Tip of tongue is down, sides of tongue are against upper teeth on the side of mouth. Tip of tongue quickly touches gum ridge and then releases.

More Voiced Consonants

Now let’s go through the rest of the consonant sounds of English. These consonants are all voiced, but they have no voiceless pair. Make sure that you feel the vibration in your vocal cords as you say them.

/m/	mom from lemon	Lips together. Air flows out of the nose.
/n/	non fun any	Tip of tongue touches gum ridge, and the sides of the tongue touch upper teeth; air any flows out of the nose.
/ŋ/	going spring king	Back of the tongue touches the soft palate; air flows out of the nose.
/l/	love will yellow	Tip of tongue touches upper gum ridge. Tongue is tense. Air comes out on the sides of the tongue, at the corners of the mouth.
/r/	red four card	There are two ways to produce this sound: 1: Tip of tongue curls a bit and then is pulled back slightly. 2: Tip of tongue is down; center of the tongue touches hard palate.
/w/	win lower quiet	Rounded lips as for the vowel /u/ in moon . Air flows out through the lips. Tongue is in position for the vowel sound that follows the /w/.
/y/	yes mayor young	Tip of tongue touches lower front teeth. Front of tongue is raised near the hard palate.

The Consonant /h/

This final consonant sound is voiceless and does not have a “voiced pair” that it corresponds to.

/h/	happy behave who	Vocal cords are tense and restricted, back of tongue is pushed against the throat to create friction as the air flows out from the back of the mouth.

Vowel Length and Voiced and Voiceless Consonants

Vowels are longer when followed by a voiced consonant. They are shorter when followed by a voiceless consonant. Even short vowels like /i/, /ε/, /ə/, and /ʊ/ are prolonged when followed by a voiced consonant.

Warning: Common Mistake

When you lengthen a vowel, make sure that you do not change the sound of the vowel. For example, when you say hid make sure that it doesn't sound like heed.

Stops and Continuants

CD 2
18

There is another important way that consonants are categorized, besides whether they are voiced or voiceless. Consonants can either be “stops” or “continuants,” depending on whether the airflow is stopped or if it is continued. For example, when we say the /s/ sound we can prolong it by saying “yesssssss.” The /s/ sound is considered a continuant because the air flow can continue as long as we have air in our lungs. But if we say a word like “job,” we cannot continue the final consonant, /b/. We stop the airflow by closing our lips. Therefore, /b/ is a stop. If we quickly open our lips, we can then “release” the stop and say job.

Holding Final Stops

19

Americans generally do not release many of the final stops. For example, when they say the sound /p/ in the word stop, the lips stay closed. No air comes out. This creates almost a silent version of the sound /p/, or a half p. We know the p is there, but we don’t hear all of it. If the lips were released, there would be a slight puff of air.

Let’s try another stop: the sound /g/. When you say the word big, don’t release the /g/. Make sure that your tongue remains up in the back of your mouth when you are done saying the word.

Chapter Four

PROBLEMATIC CONSONANTS

This chapter will help you fix the most common consonant errors that non-native speakers of English make. In some cases, the pronunciation of these sounds is exclusive to American English; in other cases, correct pronunciation can be difficult for a non-native speaker if that particular sound does not exist in his or her native language.

The Various t Sounds of American English

A happy person is not a person in a certain set of circumstances, but rather a person with a certain set of attitudes.

Hugh Downs

We'll start with one of the most distinctly American consonants, the letter t. The t can be pronounced in several different ways, depending on its position in a word and depending on the other sounds that surround it. Sometimes t sounds more like a d (as in water and atom), and sometimes it is not pronounced at all (as in often and interview). Other times it's barely pronounced as in but and cat. Also, it can change to a different sound when it is followed by an r sound, as in try or truth.

The Held t

As a simple awareness exercise, let's first practice saying the /t/ sound so that you get a feeling of where in the mouth it occurs. Repeat saying the t: "ttttt." You will notice that the tip of your tongue is touching and releasing your gum ridge, which is the upper part of your mouth, right behind your front teeth. Try it again: "ttttt." This is what we call a fully pronounced t. The tongue touches and releases.

Now say the following two words which end with a t: cat, right.

Say them again; this time do not release the t. Just let your tongue stay on top, touching the gum ridge, with no air coming out when you say the t. This is called the "held t." The other way to make this kind of silent t is just to press the vocal cords together to stop the airflow, and then release.

The letter t is generally held at the end of words and before consonants within words. This “held t” is very common in American English. Using it will help you to sound more like a native speaker since non-native speakers almost always tend to release the t when speaking English. Note: You will sometimes hear Americans release the final t. If they do, it’s usually at the end of a phrase or a sentence, or for special emphasis of a word. For example: “That’s great!” “It’s so hot!” There is no absolute rule about always holding the t, but keep in mind that if you release the t at the end of every word, it will sound like a foreign accent.

Did you say can or can’t?

The silent t is one of the reasons why you may have a hard time hearing the difference between the words “can” and “can’t.” Listen for the held “t” for “can’t.” Also the vowel in the word “can’t” is usually longer because negative auxiliaries are stressed more than affirmative auxiliaries within sentences. You can learn more about word stress in Chapter Six.

b. It's only twenty minutes from Santa Monica.

When t is Between Two Vowels

When a t is between two vowels, it is generally pronounced like a fast /d/ sound. It also sounds the same as the “rolling r” sound of many languages, when the tip of the tongue touches the upper gum ridge. This sound is also sometimes called a “tapped t” because you quickly tap the tip of the tongue on the gum ridge when pronouncing it.

A t becomes a “fast /d/” in the following cases:

- A. Between two vowels:

We don't say:

better

We say:

bedder
- B. Before an “l”:

We don't say:

little

We say:

liddle
- C. After an “r” and a vowel:

We don't say:

party

forty

We say:

pardy

fordy

Note: A t does not change to a “fast /d/” sound if it's within a stressed syllable. We don't say: “adack,” we say “attack.”

The “Fast d” Sound

In addition to the standard /d/ sound as in words like dog, day, and bed, there is another kind of /d/ sound that occurs between two vowels and also before an l. It sounds exactly like the t between two vowels and is often called “fast /d/.” Again, it’s a sound made with the tip of the tongue quickly tapping the gum ridge.

Words Ending in -ed

The final ed forms the past tense of regular verbs (such as needed and worked) and of some adjectives (such as interested and tired). The ed can cause problems for some non-native speakers because it can be pronounced in three different ways: as /Id/, /d/, or /t/. Here are the three rules you need to know when pronouncing -ed.

CD 2

Rule 1

If the last letter of the word is spelled with a d or a t, the ed is pronounced as /Id/ and as a separate syllable.

avoided	separated	visited	waited

Rule 2

If the last letter of the word ends in a voiced consonant or a vowel sound, the e is silent and d is pronounced as /d/. (Reminder: Voiced consonants are /b/, /d/, /g/, /v/, /m/, /n/, /r/, /l/, /z/, /ʒ/, /y/, and /ð/.)

opened	changed	earned	pulled called	closed	loved	showed

Rule 3

If the last letter of the word ends in a voiceless consonant, the e is silent and the d is pronounced as /t/. (Reminder: Voiceless consonants are /p/, /t/, /k/, /f/, /s/, /ʃ/, /tʃ/, and /θ/.)

passed	helped	laughed	stopped

Linking ed Ending and a Vowel

Linking is connecting the final sound of one word to the first sound of the following word. You will need to learn to link words together to create smooth, natural speech. This is discussed in much greater detail in Chapter Eight, “Sound Like a True Native Speaker.” It is especially important for you to learn to link words with ed endings. The final /t/ and /d/ sounds are much easier to pronounce if they are connected to the vowel that follows it.

The Job Interview

Listen to the -ed endings of the past tense verbs and try to determine which of the three possible sounds you hear: /d/, /t/, or /Id/. In the first part of the job interview, each of the -ed verbs is followed by a word that starts with a vowel. Make sure you are linking these two words.

Interviewer: Tell me about some of your experiences as a university student.

Job Seeker: I studied accounting and finance.
I graduated at the top of my class.
I maintained a 4.0 GPA.
I played on my college basketball team and participated in many extra-curricular activities.
I volunteered at the homeless shelter.
I partied every weekend.
I dated a lot of pretty girls.
I loved every minute of it.

Interviewer: Describe some of your personal qualities that would make you qualified for this position.

Job Seeker: I am detail-oriented, highly motivated and organized. I am also focused and determined, and I work well in a fast-paced environment.
I have an advanced knowledge of computers. I am also educated and well traveled.

The th Sound

"You must do the thing you think you cannot do."

Eleanor Roosevelt

One of the most difficult consonant sounds for non-native speakers is the th or / / sound and the /ð/ sound. Remember that for this sound the tip of your tongue should touch the edges of your front teeth, and the tip of the tongue vibrates a bit while air flows out through your tongue and upper teeth. It's also acceptable to just touch the back of the front teeth as long as the air is flowing through.

There are two th sounds in English: the voiced th as in that, and the voiceless th as in think.

Practice Words for /θ/ (voiceless th)

anything	earth	nothing	Thursday author	ninth	thank	wealthy both	health	thing	with

Word Pairs for /θ/ (voiceless th)

Warning: Common Mistake

Voiceless th Versus t

Some non-native speakers incorrectly pronounce the voiceless th as a t and the following words end up sounding the same.

/θ/	/t/
thank	tank
bath	bat

To correct this problem change the position of your tongue by moving it forward to touch the teeth. Also, make sure that there is a flow of air between your tongue and your teeth.

Some non-native speakers incorrectly pronounce the voiced th as a d. The following words end up sounding the same.

65

Again, to correct this problem change the position of your tongue by moving it forward to touch the teeth. Also, make sure that there is a flow of air between your tongue and your teeth.

Warning: Common Mistake

Make sure that your tongue vibrates under your upper teeth. Do not bite your tongue or press it on your upper teeth too strongly—this will block the flow of air that is required to produce the th sound correctly.

Practice Sentences for Voiced and Voiceless th

1. Her thirty-third birthday is on the third Thursday of this month.
2. Those three things are worth thousands of dollars.
3. I think that Kenneth is Ethan's father.
4. That new theology doesn't threaten the faithful Catholics.
5. You can buy anything and everything in that clothing store.
6. There are those that always tell the truth.
7. I think that the south has more warmth than the north.
8. I'd rather have this one than that one.
9. Although they're rather thin, they're very healthy.

Practice Sentences for th Versus d

*It is not because things are difficult that we do not dare;
it is because we do not dare that things are difficult.*

Seneca

When the th and d are very close together, the tip of your tongue must move quickly from touching the teeth to touching the gum ridge so that both sounds can be distinctly heard.

1. Don't do that Dan.
2. What does that thing do?
3. Did they breathe in the dust?
4. Dan thought it was dad's birth day.
5. How dare they do that!
6. They did it the other day. Didn't they?

Comparing th with s and z

Some people wrongly pronounce the voiceless th as an s. They say sank and thank the same way. They also tend to wrongly pronounce the voiced th as a z. They say breeze and breathe the same way. Again, the mistake lies in the position of the tongue. For the s and z, there is also air passing through the tip of the tongue, but the tongue is not touching the teeth. It is touching a little bit behind, on the gum ridge. Pay attention to these tongue positions shown in the illustrations below as you do the following exercises.

th

The American /r/

Live as if you were to die tomorrow. Learn as if you were to live forever.
Gandhi

Many languages have what is called a “rolling r,” where the tip of the tongue touches the gum ridge, similar to the /d/ sound, but with a quick and repeated motion. In contrast, the American /r/ is produced in the back of the mouth and the tip of the tongue never touches anywhere inside the mouth. There are different ways to produce the American r. Try the two described below and decide which one is easier for you.

Forming the American /r/

Method 1

Simply curl the tip of your tongue and pull it back a bit; keep the tongue tense.

Method 2

Let the back of the tongue do all the work. Press the sides of your tongue up against the back teeth. In this case, you do not need to curl the tip of the tongue.

Words that End with r

Unlike the British r, the American r is always pronounced. It’s never silent. Pay particular attention to r when it appears at the end of a word: for, more, far, and teacher.

Words for Practice

1. four door car

2. her younger sister

3. they’re never here

4. sooner or later
5. lobster for dinner

6. your older brother

7. four more over there

R Before a Consonant

The r before a consonant is always pronounced in American English, but generally not pronounced in British English. Americans say: “morning,” “first,” “modern.” In British English, these words are pronounced as: “moning,” “fist,” and “moden.”

9. I heared that the alternative procedure was better.

10. For your information, they’re not divorced.

Story for Practice

Surprise Birthday Party

On Saturday afternoon at four, we’re having a surprise birthday party for our daughter Rachel. She’ll turn thirteen. Her cousins Charles and Barbara will arrive early to help prepare. We’ll take pictures, play cards and some board games. We’ve ordered a birthday cake and her favorite dessert, strawberry ice cream. We’ve invited about thirty of her friends and told them to come over before four. We hope all her friends get here by four before Rachel returns from the park. When they’re all here, we’ll call Mark to bring her over. When they open the front door the lights will be turned off. Her thirty friends will be waiting nervously in the other room. We hope it works out and that Rachel will be really surprised.

The American /l/

For the American /l/ sound, the tip of the tongue touches the gum ridge behind the upper teeth, just the same as when creating the /t/ and /d/ sounds. See the image below for correct tongue placement. The air stream flows through the sides of the tongue. When the /l/ occurs at the end of a word, make sure you don't release it quickly as you would do with a /t/ or /d/. This will make your /l/ sound foreign. The American /l/ is softer and longer than the /l/ sound of many other languages.

Warning: Common Mistake

Don't round your lips when you are saying the /l/ sound. This will weaken it and make it sound more like a /w/.

Understanding /l/ Versus /r/

Keep away from people who try to belittle your ambitions. Small people always do that, but the really great make you feel that you, too, can become great.
Mark Twain

Warning: Common Mistake

If your tongue is not touching the right place, your /l/ will sound like an /r/. For example, the word wall might sound like war. To correctly pronounce the /l/, make sure that the tip of your tongue is in the front, near the upper front teeth when it touches the top of your mouth. If the tip of your tongue is pulled farther back in the mouth, it might sound like an /r/ instead. Use a mirror to see the position of your tongue for the /l/ sound.

I lift my heart as spring lifts up
A yellow daisy to the rain;

Life has loveliness to sell,
All beautiful and splendid things,
Blue waves whitened on a cliff,
Soaring fire that sways and sings,
And children's faces looking up,
Holding wonder like a cup.

Life has loveliness to sell,
Music like a curve of gold,
Scent of pine trees in the rain,
Eyes that love you, arms that hold,
And for your spirits still delight,
Holy thoughts that start the night.

Spend all you have for loveliness,
Buy it and never count the cost;
For one white singing hour of peace
Count many a year of strife well lost,
And for a breath of ecstasy
Give all you have been, or could be.

Song Lyrics for Practice

“After You Get What You Want You Don’t Want It”

After you get what you want, you don't want it
If I gave you the moon, you'd grow tired of it soon

You're like a baby
You want what you want when you want it
But after you are presented
With what you want, you're discontented

You're always wishing and wanting for something
When you get what you want
You don't want what you get

And tho' I sit upon your knee
You'll grow tired of me
'Cause after you get what you want
You don't want what you wanted at all

The letter s is sometimes pronounced as a /z/ sound and sometimes as a /s/ sound. When s follows a consonant, there are rules for pronunciation, but when it follows a vowel there are no rules—so it's best to just memorize the exceptions. Studying the four basic rules below will also be helpful to you.

Warning: Common Mistake

The letter z is never pronounced as an /s/ sound. If your native language is Spanish, compare the way Americans pronounce common Spanish last names (such as “Gomez” or “Alvarez”) with the way you pronounce them in Spanish.

Rule 1

When an s follows a voiceless consonant, it is pronounced as /s/.

books	stops	makes	likes eats	cats	helps	surfs

Rule 2

When an s is followed by a voiced consonant or a vowel, it is pronounced as /z/.

eggs	beds	lives	cars
comes	boys	loans	feels

Rule 3

Double s is pronounced as /s/.

boss	less	success
massive	lesson	essay

exceptions: possession, scissors, dessert (ss sounds like /z/)

Rule 4

An extra syllable is added to words that end with certain consonant sounds followed by s. These include:

sound:	consonant:	examples:
/tʃ/	g	manages, changes
/ʃ/	sh	washes, dishes
/ʒ/	ch	churches, matches
/s/	s, ss, c	bosses, faces
/ks/	x	boxes, faxes

Study Tip

Memorize these very common words that have a final s.
The s is pronounced as /z/ and not as /s/.

was	his	these	goes	because is	hers	those	does
as	has	whose	always

Warning: Common Mistake

Note that the s in the prefix dis- is pronounced as /s/ and not as /z/.

disagree	disobey	disappear
disorder	disapprove	disability

Verbs and Nouns and the Letter s

The following words spelled with an s have a /z/ sound when they are verbs but have a /s/ sound when they are nouns.

noun:	verb:	noun:	verb:
/s/	/z/	/s/	/z/
1. use	to use	4. house	to house
2. abuse	to abuse	5. excuse	to excuse
3. close	to close	6. advice	to advise

Remember to pronounce all of the final /s/ sounds of plural nouns. Also pronounce the final /s/ of verbs in the third person singular form (he, she, it). Say the following sentences quickly, making sure that you are not forgetting the s endings.

1. A dishwasher washes dishes.
2. A bus driver drives buses.
3. A mechanic fixes cars.
4. A teacher teaches students.
5. A watchmaker makes watches.
6. A real estate agent sells houses.

Warning: Common Mistake

Make sure you are not pronouncing the words this and these the same way.

The /ŋ/ Sound: Pronouncing ng

There's as much risk in doing nothing as in doing something.

Trammell Crow

In American English, the final g in the word ending -ing should not be dropped, but it should not be over pronounced either.

Don’t say: “I’m goin shoppin.” And don’t say “I’m going shopping” by releasing the g too strongly. To create the /ŋ/ sound raise the back of the tongue and let it touch the soft palate, which is the soft area at the rear of your mouth. Don’t release your tongue when you pronounce /g/, or just release it slightly. The mistake of saying “goin’ shoppin’ ” is that the tip of the tongue is touching the area right behind the upper front teeth to create a /n/ sound. And if you say “going shopping,” the mistake is that the /g/ is released too much.

Consonant Clusters

*Hold yourself responsible for a higher standard than anybody expects of you.
Henry Ward Beecher*

Two or more consonant sounds together are called “consonant clusters.” Many languages do not have any words with consonant clusters. Therefore, when native speakers of these languages speak English, they tend to skip one or more of the consonants. Make sure you pronounce every consonant sound! Pay special attention to words spelled with the letter x since it represents a blend of two consonant sounds: /ks/ or /gz/. Also, many verbs that take -ed in the past tense consist of consonant clusters; for example: watched, stopped, picked.

Common Words with Consonant Clusters

say:	don't say:
instantly	instan...ly
hopefully	ho...fully
apartment	apar...ment
worked (sounds like “workt”)	wor...
textbook (sounds like “tekstbook”)	tes...book
extra (sounds like “ekstra”)	estra
vodka	vo...ka
strength	stren...th
recognize	reco...nize

Different Sounds for x

If the vowel following an x is stressed, the x is pronounced as /gz/, as in examine and exist. If an x is followed by a consonant, or if it's at the end of a word, it is pronounced as /ks/, as in expert and tax. Also, note that a double c often produces an x or /ks/ sound, as in the word accent. If these two sounds don't occur together in your native language, be very careful to pronounce both of these consonant sounds.

Chapter Five

SYLLABLE STRESS

A syllable is a small unit of speech that consists of a vowel, or a vowel and one or more consonants. Stressed and unstressed syllables form the basis of the rhythmic pattern of English words.

Many languages place the same amount of stress on each syllable. For example, in many languages the word banana is pronounced as:

ba na na (All three syllables are stressed equally.)

In English, we pronounce the word as:

ba na na (The second syllable is stressed.)

The vowel within the stressed syllable is longer, louder and higher in pitch. The vowel within the unstressed syllable is reduced and becomes a neutral, short vowel called the “schwa” and is pronounced as /ə/. It can be spelled with a, e, i, o, or u. All of the five vowels can sound the same if they are part of a reduced syllable. As you can see, it is more important to know which syllable is stressed than how the word is spelled. If people don’t understand a particular word you are saying, chances are you stressing the wrong syllable.

Note: Phonetically, banana looks like this: /bə ‘nænə/. The small accent symbol in front of the /n/ indicates that the syllable that follows is stressed. Your dictionary may have different stress markers.

Stressed and Reduced Vowels

Listen to the following word pairs and notice the changes in the vowel sounds, depending on whether the syllable is stressed or reduced. The first word of each pair has only one syllable, so the vowel must be fully pronounced. The second word has two syllables, with the second syllable reduced. Even though the ending of the second word is spelled exactly the same as the first word, the vowel is pronounced differently because it’s part of the reduced syllable.

	one syllable	unstressed second syllable
1.	/æ/ m a n	/ə/ salesm a n
2.	/oʊ/ p o se	/ə/ purp o se
3.	/eɪ/ r a ce	/ə/ terr a ce
4.	/eɪ/ l a te	/ə/ chocol a te
5.	/ɔ/ c o rd	/ə/ rec o rd
6.	/eɪ/ r a ge	/ə/ cour a ge
7.	/æ/ f a st	/ə/ breakf a st
8.	/æ/ l a nd	/ə/ Engl a nd

Now listen to vowel changes of words that have a reduced first syllable.

	stressed	unstressed first syllable
1.	/ɑ/ c o n	/ə/ c o n t rol
2.	/æ/ a d	/ə/ a d v ice
3.	/æ/ l a g	/ə/ l a g o on
4.	/ɑ/ p o d	/ə/ p o d i atrist
5.	/ɔ/ b a ll	/ə/ b a ll o on
6.	/ɛ/ r e d	/ə/ r e d u ce
7.	/ɔ/ o ff	/ə/ o ff e nd
8.	/æ/ m a t	/ə/ m a t e rial
9.	/ɔ/ o r	/ə/ o rd a in
10.	/æ/ m a d	/ə/ M a d r id

Dangers of Stressing the Wrong Syllable

Stressing the wrong syllable sometimes creates misunderstandings because people think you are pronouncing a completely different word. The following words are great examples of why syllable stress is such an important component of the American accent.

1. noble honorable, distinguished, aristocratic Nobel a prestigious award of achievement
 "He won the Nobel Prize for his noble effort."
2. invalid a sick or disabled person invalid not valid, void
 "The invalid has an invalid permit."
3. personal individual, private personnel a group of people employed in an organization or a place of work
 "Some of the personnel have some personal problems."
4. eligible worthy of choice, suitable, legally qualified illegible impossible or hard to read
 "You won't be eligible for that position if your handwriting is illegible."
5. pronouns parts of speech that substitute for nouns are pronouns such as he and she pronounce to say words, to utter
 "Can you pronounce those pronouns correctly?"
6. comedy a humorous drama or play committee a group of people elected or appointed to perform a function
 "The committee watched a comedy."
7. advantages benefits or gain advantageous beneficial, useful
 "It would be advantageous to learn about the advantages of that method."
8. decade ten years decayed become rotten or ruined
 "Their relationship has decayed in the past decade."
9. access ability or right to enter excess extra, additional
 "Do you have access to the excess data?"
10. content (noun) the subject matter of a book, speech, etc.
content (adjective) satisfied and happy
 "Are you content with the content of that letter?"

11.

Study Tip

Make a list of words commonly used at your workplace or in your field of study. Ask a colleague or classmate who is a native speaker to pronounce the words for you as you record them. Listen to the recording, carefully noting which syllable is stressed.

General Rules for Stress Placement

CD 3
Track
33

This section will give you some general guidelines and patterns of American English syllable stress. Keep in mind that there are many exceptions to these rules and that English syllable stress can be quite irregular. Get into the habit of using your dictionary or asking native speakers to pronounce new or confusing words for you.

Two-Syllable Words
	NOUNS	VERBS
	Stress the first syllable	Stress the second syllable.
1.	action	produce
2.	paper	achieve
3.	building	apply
4.	concert	succeed
5.	teacher	attach
6.	father	employ
7.	window	include
8.	garden	destroy

Noun and Verb Pairs

The following pairs of nouns and verbs are spelled the same but pronounced differently because of changing syllable stress. Make sure you reduce the vowel in the unstressed syllable. First you will hear the noun, and then the verb.

NOUNS	VERBS	NOUNS	VERBS
1. addict	addict	11. object	object
2. conduct	conduct	12. present	present
3. conflict	conflict	13. produce	produce
4. contest	contest	14. progress	progress
5. convert	convert	15. rebel	rebel
6. convict	convict	16. record	record
7. defect	defect	17. research	research
8. desert	desert	18. subject	subject
9. increase	increase	19. suspect	suspect
10. insult	insult

Note: Some of the above words have completely different meanings in the verb and noun forms.

Practice Sentences

Underline the stressed syllables in the verbs and nouns in bold letters. To check your answers, listen to the audio.

- 1. The singer wants to record a new record.
- 2. The drug addict is addicted to heroin.
- 3. He insulted me with a rude insult.
- 4. I would like to present all of the present members.
- 5. This permit permits you to park your car here.
- 6. They protested in the protest.
- 7. Do you object to this object?
- 8. The convict was convicted again.
- 9. I suspect that they caught the suspect.
- 10. They are going to contest the results of the contest.

Practice Dialogue

Once again, underline the stressed syllables in the bold words before listening to the audio.

- a. Have you heard? The police caught the suspect!
- b. Do you mean the one who is suspected of robbing the bank?
- a. Yes, I heard that he had a criminal record.
- b. Oh really? What crime was he convicted of?
- a. He’s a drug addict who has been robbing banks to support his addiction.
- b. How many years do you think he will spend in prison?

- a. A maximum of ten years. But he might be released early on good conduct.

b. If he conducts himself badly and insults the prison guards, I wonder if his sentence will be increased.

c. I don't know. I haven't heard of a prison term increase for insults and bad conduct.

Words Ending in -tion and -ate

Verbs that end with -ate have a stress on the first syllable. Nouns ending with -tion however, have a stress on the syllable before the suffix. Examine the examples in the chart below.

Rules for Prefixes

Sometimes the prefix is stressed and other times it's not. Prefix + verb combinations usually have second syllable stress. Here are a few examples.

- | | | | |
|-----------|------------|------------|---------|
| oversleep | understand | outlive | rewrite |
| overdo | undertake | outperform | redo |

However, if the prefix + the root word function as a noun, the first syllable is stressed:

- | | | | |
|-----------|------------|--------|-------------|
| oversight | undertaker | refill | outsourcing |
| overdose | underwear | repeat | outcome |

Track
39

With reflexive pronouns, the last syllable is stressed. Note these common examples:

- | | | |
|----------|---------|-----------|
| myself | himself | itself |
| yourself | herself | ourselves |

Practice with Prefixes

Practice saying the following groups of words with the same prefixes, paying attention to the changes in stress. In the nouns, stress the prefix. In the verbs, stress the root word.

Reduced Vowels for Review

As a final review of this important chapter on stress and reduction, you will have an opportunity to break the habit of pronouncing each vowel fully, as you would in your native language. You must remind yourself that one of the most important factors to a great American accent is the concept of stress and reduction.

Read the word lists below, one row at a time, making sure that the vowel of the unstressed syllable is reduced and pronounced as /ə/, the schwa. The vowel spelling changes, but the vowel sound is the same in all of these groups of words.

A. Practice these words ending in ... /əl/

WORD STRESS

In this chapter you will learn the rules of stressing words within sentences. If you stress the right words your speech will have a natural rhythm and melody that is familiar to native speakers. The stress and reduction of words creates the music of English.

If your sentences are difficult to understand, it could be that you are not stressing any words, or else that you are stressing the wrong words. If you are not emphasizing any words, your speech will sound flat and monotone, and the listener will not know where one word begins and another ends. If you are stressing the wrong words, your speech will sound very foreign. For example, saying “I’ll see you later.” and “Have a nice day.” sounds foreign to the American ear. Try changing the word stress and say: “I’ll see you later.” and “Have a nice day.” Native speakers will recognize a familiar speech pattern this time and will be more likely to understand what you said, even if you are speaking quickly. So, if you have a tendency to speak too fast, learning to speak with correct word stress will automatically force you to slow down.

It’s important to note that sometimes when the word stress changes, the meaning also changes. For example:

“I went to the white house.”
or

The first example describes a house that is white, while the second one is name of the place where the US President lives. Let’s now learn some rules of word stress.

Compound Nouns

Compound nouns are two individual words that carry one meaning. They are part of one unit and have become a set phrase. Usually a compound noun consists of two nouns such as credit + card. In compound nouns, the first word is stressed, and the two words are said together, with no pausing in between the words. (Note that compound nouns can be written either as a single word or as two separate words.)

Compound Nouns for Practice

Stress the first word and pronounce the two words as one.

- | | | | |
| 1. parking lot | 5. book shelf | 9. credit card | 13. football |
| 2. parking ticket | 6. book cover | 10. post card | 14. baseball |
| 3. parking meter | 7. book store | 11. report card | 15. ballpark |
| 4. parking space | 8. bookmark | 12. green card | 16. ballroom |

More Compound Noun Practice

Stress the first word in these compound nouns within compound nouns.

- | | |
|-----------------------------|-----------------------------------|
| 1. cell phone number | 5. basketball coach |
| 2. football game | 6. blood pressure medicine |
| 3. bedroom furniture | 7. website address |
| 4. high school girl | 8. parking lot attendant |

Words for Practice

These professions are all examples of compound nouns.

- | | |
|--|----------------------------------|
| 1. taxi driver | 6. research scientist |
| 2. computer programmer | 7. physician's assistant |
| 3. real estate salesperson | 8. math teacher |
| 4. airline pilot | 9. postal worker |
| 5. brain surgeon | 10. high school principal |

Practice Dialogue

Leaving for Vacation

- a. Hi Christine. Are you all packed?
b. I'm packing my suitcase right now.
- a. Did you remember to take everything?
b. Yes, I've got my toothbrush, bathing suit, sun block, hair dryer, hairspray, airline ticket, running shoes, alarm clock, and credit cards.
- a. Don't forget the telephone number of the hotel. And reading material for the air-plane. How are you getting to the airport?
b. The taxicab will take me.
- a. Do you have your flight information?
b. Yes, it's on the airline ticket and on the boarding pass. Uh oh. I forgot my passport!

Practice Paragraph

At the Computer Store

I went to the computer store to buy a new computer. I couldn't decide between a laptop and a desktop. The salesman was very helpful. He told me all about the hard drives and the operating systems. I decided to get a laptop even though it has a smaller keyboard. He recommended a good webcam and a flash drive. I ended up also getting some software, headphones, a sound card, and a mouse pad. I also got a fax machine, a few video games, and a navigation system for my car. But when I got to the cash register and gave them my credit card, they said I went over my credit limit. I was so embarrassed! I think I went overboard!

Proper Stress with Adjectives

When an adjective is followed by a noun, the noun is stressed.

nice day	small room	blue eyes	old man
big house	long time	good job	first grade

When two adjectives precede a noun, stress the first adjective and the noun. The noun gets the most stress.

big blue bus	nice old man
really nice day	cute little girl
short black hair	big brown eyes

Practice Sentences

1. He's got big blue eyes and short black hair.
2. The nice young man helped the little old lady.
3. The big blue bus passed the little white car.
4. The rich young man bought that big old house.

Word Pairs for Practice

Practice saying the word pairs while stressing the words in bold letters.

7. I left my cell phone in the front seat of my friend's car.
8. Let's go see the new film at the movie theater.

Compound Nouns Containing Adjectives

Sometimes in a compound noun, the first word is an adjective that no longer carries the original meaning. The meaning has been lost and has become a part of a fixed phrase or common expression. For example the adjective super in the compound noun supermarket doesn't make people think of the true meaning of the word super. Here are some other examples.

Phrasal Verbs

A "phrasal verb" is a verb + preposition combination that carries a special meaning. Phrasal verbs are idiomatic; they cannot be translated word-for-word. For example, turn on, turn off, turn down, and turn up, are all phrasal verbs. These types of words are very common in English and are often more frequently used than their one-word synonyms. For example, you are more likely to hear "put out the fire" rather than "extinguish the fire." In phrasal verbs, the stress is on the last word; note the bold words in the examples below.

Noun Forms of Phrasal Verbs

Sometimes the phrasal verb has a noun equivalent, or a “phrasal noun.” In that case, the stress is on the first word. We say “work out” if it’s a verb, and “workout,” if it’s a noun.

Sentence Pairs for Practice

Phrasal verbs

(stress on second word)

1. The car was tuned up.
2. I worked out yesterday.
3. The papers were handed out.
4. They covered it up well.
5. A lot of food was left over.
6. That really turns me off!
7. They let me down.
8. The order was mixed up.
9. He dropped out.
10. I need to sign up for the class.

Nouns

(stress on first word)

- My car needed a tune-up.
I had a great workout.
We got some interesting handouts.
I heard about the cover-up.
We ate leftovers for lunch.
That’s such a turnoff!
It was a big letdown.
We’re sorry about the mix-up.
He’s a high school dropout.
Where is the sign-up sheet?

Lengthening the Main Vowel in Stressed Words

When the stressed word has only one syllable, just prolong the word and make the vowel higher in pitch. If the stressed word has more than one syllable, make sure that the stressed syllable of the word is prolonged and emphasized more than usual.

Prolonging the stressed vowel may sound exaggerated to you, particularly if the vowel is already a long vowel, such as /a/ and /ae/ and /ou/. For example, if you say, "It's really far." or "Stop that!," the vowel sound may be much longer than it would sound in your native language. Don't say: "It's really far." Say: "It's really far (faaar)." Don't say "Stop that!" Say "Stop (staaap) that!" Let's first get used to prolonging the vowels within stressed words since this will create a distinctly American sound to your English.

Which Words Should I Stress?

CD 3
Track
64

Now that you have had a quick introduction to how words sound when they are stressed and reduced, let's learn the rules of which words are stressed and which are reduced.

Content Words

"Content words" are the words that carry the most meaning. These words are usually nouns, verbs, adjectives, adverbs, and sometimes question words such as when, why, or where. If we removed the surrounding words and just spoke using content words, the general idea of what we were trying to say would still be understood. For example, imagine that you heard someone say: "Went store morning." You would understand that they meant: "I went to the store in the morning."

Also, content words are like key words that you would use when searching a topic on the internet. For example, you would only type: "SYMPTOMS, HEART ATTACK," instead of "What are the symptoms of a heart attack?" Another good example of content words can be found in newspaper headlines. They would say: "Suspect arrested" instead of "A suspect has been arrested;" and "Neighbors complain" instead of "The neighbors have been complaining."

As a general rule, the last content word of a phrase gets the most stress. So, in the sentence “A suspect has been arrested,” arrested will get the most stress. Similarly, we don’t say: “The neighbors have been complaining.” Instead, we stress the last content word and we say: “The neighbors have been complaining.”

Now let’s practice stressing content words and placing the most stress on the final content word.

CD 3
Track
65

Practice Sentences

Remember to stress the last content word in each sentence. Notice how the stress changes as more information is added to the end. The underlined word gets the most stress.

1. I like bacon.
I like bacon and eggs.
2. It’s black.
It’s black and white.
3. Do you want salt?
Do you want salt and pepper?
4. That’s good.
That’s a good idea.
5. It’s hot.
It’s a hot day.
6. I need it.
I need to go.
I need to go home.
I need to go home at five o’clock.
7. I saw him.
I saw the man.
I saw the man you told me about.*
8. He drove it.
He drove the car.
He drove the car he bought yesterday.
He drove the car that he bought from his friend.

*Note: me and about are not stressed because they are not content words.

CD 3
Track
66

Content Words in Detail: Verbs

Verbs are action words, such as go, eat, and study. We emphasize main verbs more than the participles or gerunds that come before them. That’s because words like can, could, am, been, don’t, and have (when it’s a participle) are less important than the main verb.

Practice Sentences

Notice how the verbs are stressed the most and how the surrounding words have been reduced.

- 1. I'll call you.
- 2. I saw him.
- 3. I'll wait for you.
- 4. I have to go.
- 5. It's nice to meet you.

6. He might have lost the money that I gave him.
7. I think he might have lost the money that I gave him.

Reducing Vowels in Unstressed Words

We reduce “function words.” These types of words generally don’t carry as much importance or meaning as the content words. If they were eliminated, the sentence would still make sense. Here is a list of the function words:

- a. pronouns - he, she, you, they, mine, his, himself, etc.
- b. prepositions - to, in, for, at, by, on, with, from, etc.
- c. conjunctions - and, but, or, nor, so, yet
- d. auxiliary verbs - am, is, was, were, do, does, been, have, can, could, should, etc.
- e. articles – a, an, the
- f. indefinite pronouns - one, some, any, anywhere, somewhere, anything, something, etc.

There is one exception to the rule above: auxiliary verbs are stressed in their negative forms. See below.

CD 3
Track

affirmative:

I can do it.
He should try it.
I'd like it.

negative:

I can't do it.
He shouldn't try it.

Weak Forms

CD 3
Track
74

When a word is reduced we use the “weak form” of the word. The weak form is said more quickly and more softly. The vowel becomes the schwa sound, /ə/. For example, the preposition for sounds like “fur” or /fər/, and at sounds like /ət/. Let’s now practice using the weak forms of some commonly unstressed words.

CD 3
Track
75 to becomes /tə/

1. I'd like to go.
2. I need to talk to you.
3. I'd like to go to the park.

and becomes /n/

1. bacon 'n' eggs
2. black 'n' white
3. in 'n' out
4. rock 'n' roll for becomes /fər/

1. Let's go for a walk.
2. Wait for John.
3. This is for Bill.
4. I'm looking for my book.

can becomes /kən/

1. I can do it.
2. You can call me.
3. Can you swim?
4. When can you come over?

as becomes /əz/

1. It's as big as a house.
2. I'm as hungry as a wolf.
3. I'll call you as soon as I can.
4. Keep it as long as you need it.

or becomes /ər/

1. Is it this one or that one?
2. I'll do it today or tomorrow.
3. I saw it five or six times.
4. I'm leaving on Monday or Tuesday.

Strong Forms

When the function word is at the end of the sentence, or if it’s used for emphasis, make sure you use the “strong form” of the word. Let’s compare a few sentences with weak and strong forms.

	weak form reduced vowel	strong form full vowel
for	/fər/ I’m looking for you.	Who are you looking for ?
to	/tə/ Would you like to go?	I’d love to .
at	/ət/ He’s at the bank.	Are you laughing with me or at me?

Practice Dialogues

1. Reducing yourself, myself

a. I’m really ashamed of myself.

b. You need to forgive yourself and tell yourself that everyone makes mistakes. Stop punishing yourself. Otherwise, you’ll drive yourself crazy. Why do you doubt yourself so much?

a. I guess I can’t help myself.
2. Reducing anywhere, anyone, anything

a. How was your weekend? Did you do anything interesting?

b. I didn’t do anything, I didn’t see anyone, I didn’t go anywhere.
3. Reducing to, for, as, of, can, an

a. Are you the owner of this restaurant?

b. Yes I am.

a. Can I talk to you for a moment?

b. Sure, how can I help you?

a. We’ve been waiting for our food for over an hour.

b. I’m sorry for the delay. I’ll talk to the chef and I’ll bring it out as soon as I can.

Warning: Common Mistake

Don't speak quickly unless you know for certain the rules of which words to stress and which to reduce. Some non-native speakers develop a habit of speaking English at a fast pace, thinking that this will make them sound more like native speakers. Instead, it actually makes their speech harder to understand. Remember, American speech follows the rules of stressing content words and reducing function words. So, we can conclude that Americans speak both quickly and slowly at the same time.

Thought Groups and Focus Words

When sentences are longer, they are divided into "thought groups." Thought groups are words that naturally belong together as a grammatical unit. We instinctively pause between thought groups, although the pause is not as long as when there's a comma or a period.

Here is an example of a sentence that is divided into two different thought groups:

"I like bacon and eggs ///early in the morning." It's natural to divide this sentence, and it sounds better than if you had said: "I like bacon and eggs early in the morning," without pausing.

Within each thought group there is always one word that gets the most stress. That stressed word is called a "focus word." The focus word is the word that carries the key information of the thought group. It's usually the last content word within the thought group. For example, in the example sentence above, eggs and morning are the focus words.

There is some variation between different speakers regarding how often to pause within a longer sentence. People who speak quickly tend to pause less and their sentences have fewer thought groups.

Practice Sentences

Practice stressing the focus words and pausing between the thought groups.

1. I want to talk to you // about something important.
2. If you give me your email address, *// I will send you the information.
3. Every time I stop by his office, // he's too busy to talk to me.
4. I wonder how long // it will take me //to learn to speak English like you.
5. What did you think of the new restaurant // that we went to last night?
6. He has been looking for a new job // for a long time now // but he just hasn't found anything // that he really likes.

(Email address* is a compound noun, so we stress the first word.)

Practice Conversations: Telephone Messages

Practice these voicemail messages using correct word stress. The focus word of each thought group is in bold letters. The thought groups are divided by slashes.

A. Phone Tag

Mary’s Answering Machine: Hi, this is Mary. I am sorry // I missed your call. Please leave a message // after the beep, and I’ll call you back // as soon as I can.

Mike: Hi Mary, this is Mike. It’s been a while // since we last spoke. I hope you’re doing well. I’m calling to see // if you’re free tomorrow. I am going hiking // with some friends // and I wanted to see // if you’d like to join us. It would be great to see you. Give me a call // and let me know // if you’re available.

Mary: Hi Mike, this is Mary, returning your call. It was great to hear from you. Sorry that we keep missing each other. Yeah, I’d love to go hiking with you. Let me know // what time you’re thinking of going. I’m looking forward to it. I should be home tonight // after seven, so call me // and let me know // where we should meet.

B. Sales Call

Note that individual speaking style or some circumstances can determine the number of thought groups there are in a sentence. For example, the following speech has fewer thought groups because the speaker is a salesman who needs to deliver his message quickly.

Good afternoon, Mr. Johnson. This is Bill Jones calling. I would like to tell you about the new product // our company is selling. I believe // it will greatly benefit your organization. We recently conducted a study // on how your customer’s needs are changing. We are able to help you run your business more efficiently // and at the same time, save you money. I think that people in your firm // would be very interested in our services. I’d like to set up a time to talk with you // about how our company can help you. I can assure you // that it will be worth your while. When would be a good time // for us to meet?

Contrastive Stress

Be nice to people // on your way up // because you might meet them // on the way down.

Wilson Mizner

We also sometimes stress words to bring out a special meaning or to clarify what we mean when there is confusion. In this case, any word in a sentence can be stressed, including a function word.

Practice Sentences

Each of the following sentences can be stressed in four different ways, depending on the meaning that the speaker wants to convey.

I don't love him.

I don't love him.

I don't love him.

I don't love him.
- implied meaning:

....but she does

I really don't.

But I think he's a nice person.

But I love the other guy.

I may drive to New York.

I may drive to New York.

I may drive to New York.

I may drive to New York.
- implied meaning:

Not she.

Maybe, I'm not sure.

Not fly.

Not Boston.

Contrastive Stress for Clarification

What lies behind us and what lies before us are tiny matters compared to what lies within us.
Oliver Wendell Holmes

Notice how the stressed words emphasize a particular meaning or a need for clarification.

1.

Do you need a ticket to Paris or from Paris?
2.

Did you say inside or outside?
3.

I want two pieces, not one.
4.

It's under the desk, not on the desk.
5.

The government is of the people, by the people, and for the people.

Emphasizing Auxiliaries

Notice the extra stress placed on the auxiliaries to clarify or strengthen a point. The underlined word indicates extra stress.

a. You don't understand me.

b. I do understand you.
2.

a. You didn't go, did you?

b. I did go.
3.

a. It's hot isn't it?

b. It is hot.

a. You've never been here, have you?

b. I have been here.

Practice Dialogue

Making an Appointment

- a. Hello, dentist's office.
- b. I'm calling // to make an appointment // for a dental checkup.
- a. I have an opening // on Tuesday // at 5 pm.
- b. I'll have to work late // on that day. Do you have anything // on Friday morning?
- a. I don't have anything // on Friday morning, but I do have // Friday afternoon.
- b. Hmm, let me check. I think I can make it. Yes, I can. I can make it.
- a. Would you like three o'clock or four o'clock?
- b. Four o'clock sounds good.
- a. Will this be your first visit // to our office?
- b. No, it'll be my second visit.

INTONATION

“Intonation” is the melody of language and is made up of pitches that rise and fall. This rising and falling melody is used to communicate our intentions and our emotions. In spoken language, intonation replaces punctuation. It tells the listener whether we are finished talking or whether we have something more to say; whether we are asking a question or making a statement. Intonation also gives information that words alone cannot give. It can indicate anger, surprise, confusion, hesitation, sarcasm, interest, or lack of interest. If your speech has good intonation it will be more dynamic and more interesting to listen to.

Falling Intonation

Lower your voice at the end of the sentence to produce a “falling intonation.” This intonation is used for a variety of reasons:

Statements

Falling intonation is used in simple sentences that are not questions. For example:

- 1. My name is John.
- 2. It’s nice to meet you.
- 3. Have a nice day.
- 4. I’m going outside.
- 5. I’ll be back in a minute.

Questions

Falling intonation is also used when asking questions if they contain interrogative words such as where, what, why, when, how, and who. For example:

- 1. What’s his name?
- 2. Why did you leave?

- 3. Where are you going?
- 4. What are you thinking about?
- 5. How are you doing?
- 6. When does it start?
- 7. Who told you?

Track 4

Rising Intonation

Raise the pitch of your voice at the end of a sentence to create “rising intonation.” Rising intonation is used in “yes/no questions.” For example, “Did you see it?” is a “yes/no” question. It can be answered with either a “yes” or a “no.” Compare that question with this one: “When did you see it?” this one cannot be answered by a simple “yes” or “no.”

- 7. Really?

Advice from a Successful Student

“I don’t get upset with myself if my accent isn’t perfect. I know I am making progress as long as I practice all the time. Don’t be too hard on yourself if you are still making mistakes. Developing an American accent is a process. It doesn’t happen overnight.”

The following question pairs contain both rising and falling intonation, depending on whether they contain a “question word” or whether they are “yes/no” questions. The first question of the pair has rising intonation, and the second has falling intonation.

yes/no question

- 1. Do you teach?
- 2. Did you see the movie?
- 3. Do you know that guy?
- 4. Did you buy the car?
- 5. Do you work there?

question words

- What do you teach?
- When did you see the movie?
- How do you know that guy?
- Where did you buy the car?
- Why do you work there?

Non-final Intonation

With “non-final intonation,” the pitch rises and falls within the sentence or word. This type of intonation is used in various situations which are outlined below.

Unfinished Thoughts

Non-final intonation is often used to indicate that you have not ended a thought. To indicate that you have something more to say, raise your pitch at the end of the phrase. For example, “When I saw him...” or “If I study hard...”

Introductory Words

Non-final intonation is also used with introductory words, such as actually or by the way. Since these types of words indicate that a thought is not finished, the non-final intonation is appropriate.

“Wavering intonation” is used for expressing specific emotions or attitudes. With this type of intonation, the pitch changes within words.

Some of the emotions you can express with your intonation include anger, surprise, sarcasm, hesitation, uncertainty, disgust, fear, amazement, and pity.

Let’s start with the words you did. We can say them five different ways depending on the emotion or intention. Listen to the audio to hear the intonation changes.

- Emily: Rachel, is that you?
Rachel: Hi Emily.
Emily: I didn't recognize you at first. Did you lose weight?
Rachel: As a matter of fact, I lost twenty pounds.
Emily: Really? How did you do it?
Rachel: Well, I stopped eating cake, ice cream, potato chips, and candy bars, and I started eating healthier foods like salads, fruit, nuts, and vegetables.
Emily: Wow! I have to say, you look amazing.
Rachel: Do you really think so?
Emily: Absolutely!

SOUND LIKE A TRUE NATIVE SPEAKER

This chapter will share some important information that will help you sound more like a true native speaker. You will learn the rules of how words are connected together so that your speech flows better and sounds more natural and more fluent. You will also learn more about which words to reduce and exactly how to reduce them. And you will learn the differences between casual, relaxed speech and more formal, careful speech.

Linking Words for Smoother Speech Flow

Many non-native speakers of English believe they should pronounce each word separately because they want to make sure their speech is clear and easily understood. This does help their speech sound clear, but it also creates speech that sounds a bit foreign and a bit mechanical, almost like computer-generated speech.

Native speakers connect, or “link,” words together if the words are part of the same thought group. They connect the last sound of one word to the first sound of the next word. Linking creates the smooth, uninterrupted sounds that are the key to natural, fluent sounding speech.

If you’re making the common error of dropping the endings of words by not pronouncing the final consonant, the problem will automatically be solved when you apply the rules of linking to your speech. Linking requires you to connect the final consonant with the next word, if it begins with a vowel. In this way, the final sound, which is always more difficult to pronounce, becomes the first sound of the word that follows it. For example, it’s more difficult to say “burned out” than to say “burn doubt.”

Instead of saying “it’s - a - cold - evening” with each word pronounced separately, say “it sa col devening,” and your speech will instantly sound more native-like and you are guaranteed to pronounce the final consonants.

Warning: Common Mistake

Linking and speaking fast are not the same thing! You don't need to speak fast. When native speakers link words, they are not necessarily speaking faster. The speech is just smoother, and less choppy. It's extremely important to stress the content words when you are linking words because this will force you to slow down at the right place, and it will make your speech more easily understood.

Rules for Linking

Linking Consonant to Vowel

When a word ends in a consonant and the next word begins with a vowel, connect the final consonant to the next vowel, making it sound as if the second word starts with a consonant. Study the examples below to make this point clear.

	sounds like:
1. hold on	"whole Don"
2. I like it	"I lie kit"
3. deep end	"depend"
4. get up late	"get a plate"
5. picked out	"pick doubt"
6. this guy	"the sky"

Practice Dialogues

Note that the words in bold get the most stress.

- a. Can I come in?
b. Yes, come on in. The door is open.
- a. Should I leave it on?
b. No, turn it off.
- a. What time is it?
b. It's already five o'clock.

4. a. Let’s take a walk.
b. That’s a good idea.
5. a. How far is it?
b. Four and a half hours away.
6. a. This is a good film.
b. Too bad it’s sold out.
7. a. I have an awful headache.
b. Take an aspirin.
8. a. This is my brother-in-law.
b. We’ve already met.

Linking Consonant to Same Consonant

When the final consonant of one word is the same as the first consonant of the following word, pronounce the consonant only once. Do not pause between the sounds, but just lengthen the sound a bit or say it with a little bit more energy. See the example below.

1. She speaks Spanish.

2. turned down

3. help Paul

4. well lit

5. black cat

6. foreign name
- sounds like:

“She speak Spanish.”

“turn down”

Final Stop Between Consonants

In Chapter Three you learned the difference between stops and continuants. Remember, when a stop is followed by another consonant, do not release the stop. The release creates a puff of air and an extra syllable. Make sure that good time doesn't sound like "good a time" and that help me doesn't sound like "help a me."

Linking Vowel to Vowel

If one word ends with a vowel and the next word begins with a vowel, do not pause between the words. For a smoother transition between the sounds and to ensure a complete pronunciation of both of the vowels, we insert a short /w/ sound after a front vowel (such as /eɪ/, /i/, and /ai/) and a short /y/ sound after a back vowel (such as /ʊ/ and /oʊ/).

Insert a very quick /w/ sound

Sounds like:

go out
How are you?

"go – wout"
"how ware you"

Insert a very quick /y/ sound

I am
they are

"I yam"
"they yare"

Reducing Pronouns

In the chapter on word stress you learned that pronouns are not stressed. When we reduce the pronouns, the first letter is often silent. For example, the letter h is often silent for the words he, him, his, her, and hers when these pronouns are not the first words of a sentence. Also, the th sound is often silent for the word them. This is particularly true in casual speech, but it frequently occurs in formal speech as well. Study the example below.

Study Tip

When you watch an American film, try to watch it with closed captioning or subtitles in English. This is a very useful method for developing better listening skills, using the right melody and learning the common reductions of American speech. Play back some scenes and repeat the actors’ lines several times until you can say them the same way.

Contractions

A “contraction” is a word that is made shorter when it is linked to the word that comes before it. For example, “she is nice.” is usually contracted to “she’s nice.” Contractions are a standard part of English speech and they’re used even in very formal situations. Using contractions is not considered sloppy or lazy speech. In fact, if you don’t use contractions, your speech will sound mechanical and foreign and might even give the impression that you are not very fluent in English. For example, you will hear people say, “I’m happy,” rather than “I am happy.” If you do hear “I am happy” it’s usually in response to an opposite statement or question, such as “I don’t think you’re happy.” If the response is “I am happy!” with stress on the word am, the meaning is “I really am happy.”

Another situation in which a contraction may not be used is when a speaker pauses in order to think of what to say next. For example: “I am... happy.”

Note: Do not use contractions in written language, unless the writing is informal.

Warning: Common Mistake

Don't make up your own contractions. There are specific rules that native speakers follow for contracting words. Only use the ones that you hear native speakers say and the ones that you learn in this book.

Commonly Contracted Words

1. The Verb to be

I'm happy.
She's American.

2. Auxiliary Verbs

These include be, would, will, and have.

He's working.
He'd like to go.
I'll call you.
I've been there.

3. The Word not

Not is contracted when it follows have, be, can, could, should, would, and must.

I haven't been there.
I can't do that.

Practice with Contractions: will

- | | |
|------------------------|-------------------|
| 1. I will do it. | I'll do it. |
| 2. You will like it. | You'll like it. |
| 3. He will call you. | He'll call you. |
| 4. We will take it. | We'll take it. |
| 5. They will see. | They'll see. |
| 6. It will rain. | It'll rain. |
| 7. It will be good. | It'll be good. |
| 8. That will be all. | That'll be all. |
| 9. There will be snow. | There'll be snow. |

Practice with Contractions: would

- | | |
|-----------------------------|----------------------|
| 1. I would go. | I'd go. |
| 2. I would like some more. | I'd like some more. |
| 3. He would go if he could. | He'd go if he could. |
| 4. She would understand. | She'd understand. |
| 5. We would like to see it. | We'd like to see it. |

Practice with Contractions: had

Note that this contraction sounds the same as the contraction of would.

- | | |
|--------------------------------|---------------------------|
| 1. I had never seen it before. | I'd never seen it before. |
| 2. She had known about it. | She'd known about it. |

Song Lyrics for Practice

"After You've Gone"

After you've gone—and left me crying
After you've gone—there's no denying You'll feel blue—you're gonna be sad
You've missed the dearest pal that you ever had

There'll come a time—don't forget it
There'll come a time—when you'll regret it

Some day when you'll grow lonely
Your heart will break like mine—you'll want me only

After you've gone—after you've gone away

Conditional Tense and Contractions

CD 4
Track
49

The grammar of the conditional tense requires a lot of small words that you will need to learn to contract. For example, the following sentence which is the conditional past unreal tense contains thirteen short words: “If you had not called me I would not have known about it.” Saying each word separately obviously sounds unnatural and very foreign. Here’s how an American would say that: “If you hadn’t called me, I wouldn’ve known about it.” Instead of “wouldn’t have,” we say, “woudn’ve.” The t of the word not disappears. Or, in more casual situations, the have of would not have sounds like a as in “woudna.”

This grammar point is often difficult for some intermediate students of English. It might also be difficult for some advanced speakers who have learned English informally, just by speaking it in the United States, rather than through classroom study. Producing these conditional sentences quickly and naturally, particularly in the past unreal tense is difficult for many learners of English. If this is your case, make an extra effort to master this grammar point. Repeating the sentences of the following exercises will help you memorize the grammatical patterns. Practice them until you feel proficient using them.

Word Groups for Practice

Let’s start learning to use contractions in the easier part of the conditional past: the “if clause.”

- | | | |
|---------------------------|-------------------------|--|
| | sounds like: | |
| 1. If I had been... | “If I’d been...” | |
| 2. If I had not called... | “If I hadn’t called...” | |
| 3. If she had seen... | “If she’d seen...” | |
| 4. If they had gone... | “If they’d gone...” | |

Now let’s practice the second half of the past conditional sentence. There are two versions of this type of contraction: standard speech and casual speech.

- | | | |
|--------------------|---------------------|-----------------------|
| | sounds like: | casual speech: |
| 1. would have | “would’ve” | “woulda” |
| 2. would not have | “wouldn’ve” | “wouldna” |
| 3. could have | “could’ve” | “coulda” |
| 4. could not have | “couldn’ve” | “couldna” |
| 5. should not have | “shouldn’ve” | “shouldna” |

Conditional Questions

With questions using have you must add an /ə/ sound between the pronoun and the contraction. But for statements, don't do this. For example a question like "Would you have been there?" would sound like "Would you'/ə/ve been there?" However, a statement would sound like: "You've been there."

sounds like:

- | | |
|------------------------------|------------------------------|
| 1. Would you have...? | "Would you'/ə/ve...?" |
| 2. Would you have been...? | "Would you'/ə/ve been...?" |
| 3. Would she have...? | "Would she'/ə/ve....?" |
| 4. Would she have wanted...? | "Would she'/ə/ve wanted...?" |

Practice Sentences

These sentences are all in the past conditional tense.

1. If I'd known it was your birthday, I would've gotten you a present.
2. If you hadn't been driving so fast, you wouldn've gotten a ticket.
3. If the weather'd been warmer, we would've gone to the park.
4. If he'd been more careful, he wouldn've had an accident.
5. I would've passed the test if I'd studied more.
6. Would you'/ə/ve done that, if you'd been in my shoes?
7. What would you'/ə/ve said if she'd asked you about it?
8. Where would you'/ə/ve gone if you hadn't come to the US?

Practice Sentences

The sentences below are examples of casual speech and use a instead of 've for have

9. If it hadn't rained we wouldna canceled the picnic.
10. It woulda been more fun if there'd been more people at the party.
11. I woulda called you if you'd given me your number.
12. If they'd come on time, they wouldna missed their flight.
13. She wouldna known if you hadn't told her.

Practice Dialogue

- a. What would you'/ə/ve done if you hadn't come to the United States?
- b. If I hadn't come to the US, I would've lived with my family, and I wouldn've had to study English. I wouldn've met my wife. I would've married someone else.

Advice from a Successful Student

"Speak with confidence. I have learned that your insecurity will actually make your accent stronger. When I go on acting auditions, I first do my homework and work on my major mistakes, and then I let go of all that work and I just do it. I am just myself. So, if you have an important interview or speaking situation coming up, just relax and let your true self come out. Don't be inhibited."

Casual Versus Formal Speech

CD 4
Track
55

Casual speech is used in an informal setting with friends and acquaintances. In casual situations, we are sometimes less careful with pronunciation and grammar. Remember, just like with contractions, there are rules to casual speech. Don't assume that you can randomly reduce any sounds that you feel like reducing. Doing this will only make your speech sound more foreign or more difficult to understand.

Casual speech has certain characteristics that distinguish it from formal speech. These are the main ones:

A. Sentences are shortened and grammar is simplified.

- sounds like:*

1. Do you want to go?	"Wanna go?"
2. You'd better do it.	"You better do it."

B. Speakers are less careful about pronouncing every consonant.

- sounds like:*

1. probably	"probly"
2. I don't know	"I dunno"
3. remember	"member"
4. going	"goin"
5. until	"til"
6. because	"cuz"

C. Slang is more acceptable.

- becomes:*

1. I need five dollars.	"I need five bucks."
2. I don't have any money.	"I'm broke."

Below are some rules of the simplifications that are made in informal speech.

Rules and Patterns of Casual Speech
Formal, Careful Speech	Informal, Relaxed Speech	Examples
you	ya	I'll call ya. See ya.
because	'cuz	I did it 'cuz I wanted to. I'm tired 'cuz I worked all day.
I don't know	I dunno	I dunno why. I dunno what to do.
let me	lemme	Lemme do it. Lemme help you. Lemme talk to him.
give me	gimme	Gimme a call. Gimme a break! Can you gimme a minute?
did you...?	joo	Joo call me? Why joo do it? Joo go out last night?
do you want to...?	wanna...?	Wanna go out? Wanna dance? What do you wanna do?
have got to...	gotta...	I gotta go. You gotta do it.
should've would've could've must've	shoulda woulda coulda musta	You shoulda told me. It woulda been nice. We coulda come. You musta seen it.
shouldn't have wouldn't have couldn't have	shouldna wouldna couldna	You shouldna done that. I woundna known. It couldna happened.
going to	gonna	I'm gonna go. It's gonna rain. What are you gonna do?
what do you...?	wadda you...?	Whadda you want? Whadda you doing? Whadda you think?

MEMORIZING THE EXCEPTIONS

This chapter consists of words that are commonly mispronounced by non-native speakers. Some of these pairs of words are spelled the same but pronounced differently. Others are spelled differently but pronounced the same. Sometimes the same word exists in other languages but it has a different pronunciation. There is also a list of the most common words with silent consonants and another one with disappearing syllables. Finally, there is list of words that are universally hard to pronounce, even by some native speakers. But the goal of an educated speaker of English is to always use language well and to pronounce words clearly and correctly.

As you will see in this chapter, English is full of illogical spelling rules and exceptions. Fortunately, if you make it a point to memorize the correct pronunciation of the commonly used words that are in this chapter, you will certainly feel more confident about your accent.

Same Spelling, Different Pronunciation

Below are common words that are spelled the same but have different pronunciations and different meanings.

	Pronunciation	Meaning
bass bass	a is /æ/ as in fat a is /eɪ/ as in take	a kind of fish a musical instrument, or low voice or tone

silent w	answer, sword, toward

*You will hear some Americans lightly pronounce the th sound when saying these words but most just omit it.

Homophones

Homophones are words with the same pronunciation but different spelling and meaning. Make sure you pronounce the second (and sometimes third) word the same as the first word, even though they look different.

NATIVE LANGUAGE GUIDE

This language guide will give you an overview of the sections of this book that you especially need to work on. This does not mean that you should neglect the rest of the book. All non-native speakers need to learn about syllable stress, word stress, and intonation which create the pattern of natural sounding American speech. These topics are covered in Chapters Five through Seven. Also, Chapter Eight, “Sounds Like a True Native Speaker,” and Chapter Nine, “Memorizing the Exceptions,” are very important for all foreign speakers of English to master.

For a detailed analysis of your accent (which will help you to use this book more efficiently) or for accent reduction training you may contact masteringtheamericanaccent.com or call 1-800 - 871-1317.

Chinese

Consonants

The /n/ sound

This consonant sound is one of the biggest problems for Chinese speakers, who tend to either completely drop the /n/ or pronounce it incorrectly when it is at the end of the word as in “phone” or before another consonant as in “nonsense.”

Linking the final /n/ of a word to the vowel of the next word automatically solves this problem. So, when “can eat” becomes “c/æ/ + neat,” the problem is solved. You should always practice linking words since this will fix other consonant problems that occur at the end of the word, particularly with the letters m, r, d, t, and th.

If there is not a vowel sound following the difficult consonant, it’s a bit more challenging. You will need to really make an extra effort to clearly pronounce this sound and other consonant sounds that never occur at the ends of Chinese words.

The /n/ sound is never a problem when it is in the beginning of the word because the Chinese n in this position is the same as the American n. The American n sound is always produced in the front of the mouth, with the tip of the tongue touching the gum ridge which is behind the upper teeth. The Chinese /n/ sound is produced in the back of the mouth, with the back of the tongue touching the upper part of the mouth, similar to the “ng” sound in English. This is why some Chinese speakers of English tend to pronounce thin and thing the same way.

Practice Words

When the tip of your tongue makes contact with the gum ridge, make sure that you are continuing to produce sound by allowing air to come out through your nose. Otherwise your n will be silent, and will not sound like the American /n/.

- | | | | |
|---------------------|---------------------|---------------------|----------------------|
| 1. one | 4. man | 7. nine | 10. nineteen |
| 2. invent | 5. convent | 8. pronounce | 11. content |
| 3. financial | 6. attention | 9. mention | 12. consonant |

Practice Sentences

1. He came to London in nineteen ninety nine.
2. He gained ten pounds in one month.
3. The sun shone after the rain.
4. That town is known for its fine wine.

The /l/ sound

All explanations and exercises for this /l/ sound are in Chapter Four. Make sure you learn to correctly produce a strong American l. Otherwise you will end up pronouncing code and cold, and too and tool, the same.

As you are raising the tongue for the /l/, don’t raise the jaw with it. Look in the mirror and try to make your tongue move up without the jaw moving. This will strengthen your tongue and help you to create a better sounding l.

Confusing /n/ and /l/

Make sure you do not confuse n and l, especially with words that contain both of these sounds, as in analysis or only. The primary difference between the two sounds is the location of the air flow. For n the air is coming out through your nose, whereas for l the air is coming out through the sides of your mouth. The tongue position is very similar for these two sounds. The tip of the tongue is a bit flatter for the n. With the l the jaw needs to open more to create space for the air to come out through the sides of the mouth. Practice keeping the jaw open while only moving the tongue for the l.

The /r/ Sound

All explanations and exercises for pronouncing r are in Chapter Four. Make sure that you clearly pronounce the final r at the end of words and before another consonant.

common mistake:

- 1. "mo"
- 2. "foam"
- 3. "moaning"
- 4. "pot"
- 5. "fa"
- 6. "cone"
- 7. "tone"
- 8. "motha"
- 9. "ha"

should be:

- "mor"
- "form"
- "morning"
- "part"
- "far"
- "corn"
- "torn"
- "mother"
- "her"

The /v/ Sound

Native Chinese speakers have a tendency to drop /v/ in the middle or at the end of words. If you are speaking quickly, make sure that you don't drop the v. All explanations and exercises for this sound are in Chapter Four.

common mistake:

- "fai dollars"
- "goment"
- "invloed"

should be:

- "five dollars"
- "government"
- "involved"

Practice Sentences

- 1. I have to have five.
- 2. He will prove that he can improve the government.
- 3. I have been involved with them for eleven or twelve years.

Also pay close attention to words with w. Do not make the common mistake of confusing the /v/ and /w/ sounds. All explanations and exercises for /v/ versus /w/ sounds are also in Chapter Four.

typical mistake:

- "hawe"

should be:

- "have"

The /z/ Sound

Sometimes Chinese speakers skip the /z/ sound. Make sure you have a strong /z/ sound in the middle and end of words. note that this sound is often spelled with an s. Also, be careful when there is a th and an s in the same word or near each other.

Practice Words

1. position
2. business
3. becase
4. easy
5. thousand
6. these

Consonant Clusters

Consonant clusters (two or more consonants together) don’t occur in Chinese words, so there’s a tendency for Chinese speakers to pronounce only the first consonant of the group. Therefore card can sound like “car” and extra can sound like “estra.” Remember, the letter x represents two sounds: /ks/. When there are two or more consonants next to each other, make sure that you pronounce every consonant. Review the “consonant clusters” section in Chapter Four for more information.

one consonant:

Where’s your car?
They ask about it.

two consonants:

Where’s your card?
They asked about it.

Vowels

It is recommended that you study all of the American vowel sounds in detail. (See Chapters One and Two.) However, pay special attention to the vowel sounds highlighted below which are the most problematic ones for Chinese speakers of English.

The /eɪ/ sound

For native Chinese speakers the /eɪ/ sound creates by far the biggest vowel error when it is followed by n, m, or l. The formation of these consonants sometimes prevents the tongue from moving correctly for the /eɪ/ sound. Generally this /eɪ/ tends to be pronounced as /ɛ/ or /æ/ making the pronunciation of pain, pen, and pan sound similar or the same when Chinese speakers pronounce them. Also, sale and sell will often sound the same. Here’s a technique for fixing this problem.

Chances are you say rain and ran similarly or the same. To fix this problem say the word ray, then slowly add the /n/ sound. Seeing them as separate in your mind will help you to fully pronounce both of the vowel sounds before you begin to move your tongue into the n position.

The /eɪ/ sound is easier for Chinese speakers to produce if it is at the end of the word or when it is followed by any other consonant. It’s generally only a problem when it’s followed by an n, m, or l.

Words for Practice

Let’s practice the technique described above by saying some common words that have /eɪ/ + /n/, /m/, or /l/. First say the word that ends in /eɪ/ and then slowly add the consonant sound.

/eɪ/	/eɪ/ + /n/	/eɪ/ + /l/	/eɪ/ + /m/may	may + /n/ = “main”	may + /l/ = “male”
say	say + /n/ = “sane”	say + /l/ = “sale”	say + /m/ = “same”
way	way + /n/ = “Wayne”	way + /l/ = “whale”
stay	stay + /n/ = “stain”	stay + /l/ = “stale”
gay	gay + /n/ = “gain”	gay+ /l/ = “Gail”	gay + /m/ = “game”

Words Contrasts for Practice

Make sure you pronounce the two words in each pair below differently.

/ɛ/	/eɪ/	/ɛ/	/eɪ/
1. sell	sale	4. men	main
2. well	whale	5. pen	pain
3. tell	tale	6. plan	plain

Confusing /ɛ/ and /æ/

Confusing these two vowel sounds will cause you to pronounce men and man the same way. Review Chapters One and Two to fix this type of error.

Confusing /i/ and /eɪ/

Make sure you pronounce these vowel sounds differently. Pay special attention to words that end with the /i/ sound: very, actually, really, me, and we. Make sure the /i/ is long.

Word Contrasts for Practice

/eɪ/	/i/	/eɪ/	/i/
1. way	we	6. hay	he
2. say	see	7. may	me
3. slave	sleeve	8. fail	feel
4. grain	green	9. raid	reed
5. straight	street

Sentence Pairs for Practice

- /eɪ/

1. What did you say?

2. They ate pork.

3. I had the mail.

4. When did you fail it?
- /i/

What did you see?

They eat pork.

I had the meal.

When did you feel it?

Longer Words

Since all Chinese words consist of only one syllable, there is a tendency for speakers of Mandarin and Cantonese to reduce English words with longer syllables. Make sure you pronounce every syllable of longer words. Also, pronounce every consonant and don't lose vocal energy toward the end of the word. Pay special attention to this if you tend to speak fast. Don't take any short cuts! Below are some examples of English words typically cut short by native Chinese speakers.

		typical mistake (missing syllable)	should be pronounced:	correct number of syllables
1.	particularly	"par-ti-cu-ly"	"par-tic-u- lar -ly"	5
2.	government	"gov-ment"	"gov- ern -ment"	3
3.	visual	"vis-ul"	"vi-su- al "	3
4.	usual	"us-al"	"u -su - a l"	3
5.	experience	"exper-ince"	"ek-spe-ri- ence "	4
6.	immediately	"im-me-di-ly"	"im-me-di- at -ely"	5
7.	customer	"cus-mer"	"cus- tom -er"	3

Practice Sentences

The correct number of syllables is indicated above each word. Count them as you read the words, then try to say them more quickly making sure you are not skipping any syllable.

- 1. The scientist is enthusiastic about artificial intelligence.
- 2. I am confident that this advertisement will be meaningful to the customers.
- 3. It is unimaginable that the Europeans lost the championship.
- 4. The foreigner had a powerful vocabulary and communicated confidently.
- 5. The executive assistant primarily negotiated for the president.
- 6. We are investigating the developmental processes of our biggest competitors.
- 7. I primarily practice the pronunciation of the difficult sentences.
- 8. The entertainment industry is concentrated in Hollywood.
- 9. He is seriously investigating a career in technical consulting.
- 10. There is a spectacular exhibition at the museum.

Word Ending Errors

The endings of words can sometimes cause problems for the native Chinese speaker. For example, since plural forms don't exist in Chinese, there is a tendency to omit them when speaking English.

typical mistake:	should be:
"I have many American friend."	"I have many American friends."

Another difficulty sometimes arises with the third person singular. The form of the verb doesn't change in Chinese so you may tend to omit the final s.

typical mistake:	should be:
"My friend say hello"	"My friend says hello"

Finally, many native speakers of Chinese, even those who are very proficient in English, tend to randomly interchange the present and past tenses. Since these tense differences don't exist in Chinese it is understandably confusing.

typical mistake:	should be:
"I work yesterday."	"I worked yesterday."
"I usually forgot."	"I usually forget."

Linking

Chinese speakers of English tend to pronounce each word separately, which makes the section on linking in Chapter Eight one of the most important aids in helping you sound more American. You will definitely want to review that chapter, but to summarize: don't release the final consonant if it's "a stop."

typical mistake:

"I had /ə/ lunch." or "I hada lunch."
"I used /ə/ to..." or "I useda to..."
"I made /ə/ that." or "I made a that."

should be:

"I had lunch."
"I used to..."
"I made that."

This mistake can be prevented by holding the final consonant and immediately saying the next word with no air created between pronouncing the two words. Study the section related to linking consonant + consonant in Chapter 8 for more practice.

Farsi

Study the whole book, but also pay special attention to a few points directly related to native Farsi speakers. These are outlined below.

Consonants

The th Sound

Review Chapters Three and Four to learn the correct pronunciation of this sound. Note that you might make the common mistake of substituting a /t/ or a /d/ for a th.

typical mistake:

“tank”
“dose” “mudder”

should be:

“thank”
“those”
“mother”

Confusing /v/ and /w/

All explanations and exercises for the “v” and “w” sounds are in Chapter Four. Be careful not to make the common mistake below.

typical mistake:

“vine”
“very vell”

should be:

“wine”
“very well”

The /s/ Sound + Consonant

The Farsi language has no word that begins with an s and is followed by another consonant. There is usually a vowel in front of the s. Therefore, you will have a tendency to put an extra /ə / sound before English words that begin with this letter. Make sure you don’t insert an extra vowel sound when you say the following words:

typical mistake:

“esmart”
“estate”
“I am going to /ə/school.”
“I /ə/study /ə/Spanish.”

should be:

“smart”
“state”
“I am going to school.”
“I study Spanish.”

The /l/ sound

Make sure that you don’t quickly release the tip of your tongue for the l at the ends of words. This will cause you to over-pronounce the /l/. The American /l/ sound is softer and longer than the Farsi /l/, and the tip of the tongue is more relaxed. Review the exercises for the American /l/ sound in Chapter Four.

Pronouncing ing

Over-pronouncing ing is another common mistake for Farsi speakers. Make sure you don’t release the /g/ sound in words that end with ing, such as going and doing. Review the rules for this sound in Chapter Four.

The /r/ Sound

You need to learn to create the correct American /r/ sound by studying Chapter Three, and doing all of the /r/ exercises in Chapter Four. Make sure you do not roll the /r/ with the tip of your tongue, as this creates a harsh-sounding Farsi /r/.

Farsi speakers tend to roll the /r/ particularly when it is followed by another consonant (as in bring, program, friend) or when it is in the beginning of a word (such as red and right).

Vowels

It is recommended that you study all of the American vowel sounds in detail. (See Chapters One and Two.) However, pay special attention to the vowel sounds highlighted below which are the most problematic ones for Iranian speakers of English.

The /ɪ/ Sound

You might have a tendency to pronounce /ɪ/ (as in sit) incorrectly. Make sure you pronounce the following words differently:

/ɪ/	/i/
1. sit	seat
2. live	leave
3. fill	feel

The /ə/ Sound

You might confuse /ə/ as in fun, with /ɑ/ as in hop. Practice pronouncing the following words differently:

/ɑ/	/ə/
1. shot	shut
2. lock	luck
3. cop	cup

The /ʊ/ Sound

Do not make the common error of confusing /ʊ/ as in good, with /u/ as in food. Make sure that you pronounce the following words differently:

/ʊ/	/u/
1. full	fool
2. pull	pool
3. look	Luke

Syllable Stress

Speakers of Farsi tend to stress the first syllables of English words. Since there are a lot of exceptions to the rules of English syllable stress, you will need to simply memorize the words that you commonly use.

common mistake:

however
I'm from Iran.
Good afternoon.

should be:

however
I'm from Iranan.
Good afternoon.

Intonation

There's a tendency for Farsi speakers to use rising intonation. This can unintentionally create a tone that sounds sarcastic or doubtful. Study the rules of falling intonation in Chapter Seven. Don't overly prolong the final part of words and sentences and try not to go up in pitch, unless you're asking a "yes/no question."

Filipino Languages

Study the whole book, but also pay special attention to the topics outlined below which are the common trouble areas for Filipino speakers of English.

Consonants

Confusing /p/ and /f/

People from the Philippines substitute a /p/ for an /f/ sound. This type of mistake is parallel to the also common /v/ and /b/ confusion, and it requires you to focus on using either two lips or just the lower lip. Be particularly careful with words that contain both a p and an f or when these two sounds are close together as in: perfect, perform, puffy, helpful, full page, and cup of coffee.

The /th/ Sound

Review Chapters Three and Four to learn the correct pronunciation of this sound. A common mistake for native Tagalog speakers is to substitute a /t/ or a /d/ for the th.

typical mistake:

“tank”
“dose” “mudder”

should be:

“thank”
“those”
“mother”

Confusing /b/ and /v/

Practice the exercises in Chapter Four. Remember, the /b/ sound requires the lips to be completely closed, with no air coming out, whereas the /v/ sound only involves the lower lip, which touches the upper teeth and creates a vibrating air flow. Be particularly careful with words that contain both a b and v or when these sounds are close together as in: Beverly, November, vibrate, available, I’ve been and very big.

Confusing /s/ and /z/

The s in many English words is frequently pronounced as a /z/ sound. Learn the rules for this pronunciation and refer to the list in Chapter Four, common /z/-sound words. Words pronounced with a /z/ sound include: husband, design, observe, always, and chose.

Words Pairs for Practice

Make sure you say these pairs of words differently:

/s/	/z/
1. piece	peas
2. face	phase
3. bus	buzz
4. price	prize

Confusing sh and ch

Make sure you can pronounce chose and shoes differently. If you feel you need more practice, review these sounds in detail in Chapter Four.

Consonant Clusters

When a word contains two consonants next to each other, make sure that you pronounce both consonants. Review the last section of Chapter Four for further practice.

Words for Practice

Practice the following words with consonant clusters:

- | | |
|------------------|--------------------|
| 1. ju st | 6. proje ct |
| 2. a ct | 7. mi xed |
| 3. lo st | 8. pai nt |
| 4. ha nd | 9. se nse |
| 5. pai nt | 10. de sk s |

Vowels

It is recommended that you study all of the American vowel sounds in detail. (See Chapters One and Two.) However, pay special attention to the vowel sounds highlighted below which are the most problematic ones for Filipino speakers of English.

Words Spelled with o

English words spelled with o are particularly difficult since o is usually pronounced as /ɑ/ as in stop and hot, but it can also be pronounced as /ə/ as in love and Monday or even as /ou/ as in so and only.

The /ɪ/ Sound

Pay attention to this tricky short vowel. Make sure you pronounce the words in each pair below differently:

- | /ɪ/ | /i/ |
|---------|-------|
| 1. sit | seat |
| 2. live | leave |
| 3. fill | feel |

The /ə/ Sound

Practice pronouncing the following words differently:

- | /ɑ/ | /ə/ |
|---------|------|
| 1. shot | shut |
| 2. lock | luck |
| 3. cop | cup |

The /ʊ/ Sound

The /ʊ/ sound, as in good, can also pose problems for you. Make sure you pronounce the words in each pair below differently:

/ʊ/	/u/
1. full	fool
2. pull	pool
3. look	Luke

Word Stress

Filipino speakers stress the adjective more than the noun in their native language. In English, the noun is stressed more than the adjective.

typical mistake:	should be:
"That's a nice car."	"That's a nice car ."
"He's an intelligent man."	"He's an intelligent man ."

Similarly, Filipinos tend to stress the first content word of a phrase or a sentence, whereas in English the last content word gets the most stress.

typical mistake:	should be:
"I drove my car."	"I drove my car ."
"I went to the bank."	"I went to the bank ."

Other common word stress errors:

typical mistake:	should be:
"I should go."	"I should go ."
" Turn it off."	"Turn it off ."
" U CLA"	"U C LA"

Study all of the other rules of word stress in Chapters Five through Eight and practice the exercises over and over.

French

Study the whole book, but also pay special attention to the topics outlined below. These are the common areas of difficulty for native French speakers.

Consonants

The Letter h

Make sure you pronounce the h sound at the beginning of words. The h is always pronounced in English except in these common words: hour, honest, honor, herb, heir, exhaust, vehicle, and ghost.

common mistake:	should be:
"she as"	"she h as"
"uman"	" h uman"

Word Contrasts for Practice

Make sure you pronounce the words in each pair differently:

no /h/	/h/
1. art	heart
2. air	hair
3. ate	hate
4. angry	hungry

Native French speakers also have a tendency to insert an /h/ sound where there shouldn't be one.

common mistake:	should be:
"he his "	"he is"
"he's hat home"	"he's at home"
" hi hate"	"I hate"

Practice Sentences

1. Henry hardly ever has a headache.
2. Perhaps he hasn't heard of the hypothesis.
3. Have you ever eaten homemade Hungarian food?
4. I hope his habit doesn't make him an alcoholic.
5. The horror movie had a horrible ending.

The Final s

In French, the s at the end of words is almost always silent. Make sure that you clearly pronounce all of the s endings when speaking English.

common mistake:	should be:
"one of my uncle"	"one of my uncles"
"a few problem"	"a few problems"

Confusing th with /s/ or /z/

Review the exercises for these sounds in Chapter Four. Be especially careful with words that have a th and s sound near each other, such as thousand and south.

Word Contrasts for Practice

Make sure you don’t pronounce these pairs of words the same:

s	th
1. mass	math
2. pass	path
3. seem	theme
4. all so	although

The /r/ Sound

When it appears at the end of a word or before another consonant, the /r/ sound may pose some difficulties for the native French speaker. Review the explanations and exercises for the /r/ sound in Chapter Four. Make sure you pronounce the final /r/ at the end of words.

typical mistake:	should be:
“mo”	“mo r e”
“fa”	“fa r ”
“motha”	“mother r ”
“ha”	“he r ”

Word Pairs for Practice

Make sure you don’t pronounce these pairs of words the same:

no r	r
1. foam	form
2. moaning	morning
3. pot	part
4. tone	torn
5. cone	corn

The /l/ Sound

Make sure you don’t quickly release the tip of your tongue for the l at the end of words. This will cause you to over-pronounce the /l/. The American /l/ sound is softer and longer than the French, and the tip of the tongue is more relaxed. Review the exercises for the American /l/ sound in Chapter Four.

Pronouncing ing

Over-pronouncing ing is another common mistake French speakers make. Be sure not to release the /g/ sound in words that end with ing, such as going and doing. Review the rules for this sound in Chapter Four.

Vowels

It is recommended that you study all of the American vowel sounds in detail. (See Chapters One and Two.) However, pay special attention to the vowel sounds highlighted below which are the most problematic ones for French speakers of English.

The /eɪ/ Sound

The /eɪ/ sound (as in take) doesn't exist in French, so French speakers generally pronounce it as /ɛ/. Thus, the words take and tech end up sounding the same. Pay special attention to this vowel sound when it's at the end of words. Listen to the way that Americans pronounce French words such as fiancé, résumé and bouquet. You will hear two vowel sounds at the end. For the word stay, instead of "sté," say "steiii."

Word Contrasts for Practice

Make sure that you pronounce the words in each pair differently:

/ɛ/	/eɪ/
1. wet	wait
2. west	waste
3. test	taste
4. men	main

The /ɔ/ Sound

Be careful that your /ɔ/ sound (as in saw) is not influenced by the very different British version of this sound. In British English pause sounds almost like "pose," but in American English it sounds much more like /paz/, and has the same /ɑ/ sound as in father or watch.

Word Contrasts for Practice

Make sure you pronounce the words in each pair differently.

/oʊ/	/ɔ/
1. low	law
2. boat	bought
3. coat	caught
4. woke	walk

The /I/ Sound

You might have a tendency to pronounce /I/ (as in sit) incorrectly. Make sure you pronounce the following words differently:

/I/	/i/
1. sit	seat
2. live	leave
3. fill	feel

The /ə/ Sound

You might confuse /ə/ as in fun, with /ɑ/ as in hop. Practice pronouncing the following words differently:

/ɑ/	/ə/
1. shot	shut
2. lock	luck
3. cop	cup

The /ʊ/ Sound

Do not make the common error of confusing /ʊ/ as in good, with /u/ as in food. Make sure you pronounce the following words differently:

/ʊ/	/u/
1. full	fool
2. pull	pool
3. look	Luke

Similar Words in French and English

One of the biggest challenges for French speakers is the fact that there are many same or very similar words in English and French. Beware! Usually they are pronounced quite differently. People may have a hard time understanding you if say them with French pronunciation. Usually the difference is in syllable stress and vowel sound. You must simply get into the habit of looking up the pronunciation of these words and listening to native speakers of English.

Here is a sample of some of these words that exist in both languages but have different pronunciations. Test yourself by saying them in English. If you are not sure about their pronunciation, look them up in an audio dictionary.

develop	science
subject	professor depend	specific services	normal
realize	important

Syllable Stress

Chapter Five is particularly important for native French speakers. It will make you aware of the big differences between the rules of French and English word stress and vowel reduction. Review the explanations and exercises there.

Word Stress

In French, speakers stress the adjective more than the noun. In English it's the opposite. It's especially important for you to study all the rules of word stress in Chapter Six.

typical mistake:

"That's a nice car."
"He's an intelligent man."

should be:

"That's a nice car."
"He's an intelligent man."

Similarly, in French one tends to stress the first content word of a phrase or a sentence; in English the last content word gets the most stress.

typical mistake:

"I drove my car."
"I went to the bank."

should be:

"I drove my car."
"I went to the bank."

Other common word stress errors:

typical mistake:

"I should go."
"Turn it off."
"UCLA"

should be:

"I should go."
"Turn it off."
"UCLA"

Study all of the other rules of word stress in Chapters Five through Eight and practice the exercises over and over.

Intonation

There's a tendency for French speakers to use rising intonation or wavering intonation. Study the rules of intonation in Chapter Seven. Wrong intonation can make you sound hesitant, doubtful, or even sarcastic.

German

Study the whole book, but also pay special attention to the topics outline below. These highlight the common difficulties for native German speakers.

Consonants

Voiced and Voiceless Consonants

Review voiced and voiceless consonants in Chapter Three. There is a tendency for German speakers to change the final voiced consonant into a voiceless one, often at the ends of words.

common mistake:	should be:
"f i fe"	fi v e

Word Contrasts for Practice

Make sure you pronounce the following words in each pair differently.

voiceless	voiced
/k/	/g/
1. ba ck	ba g
2. pi ck	pi g
/tʃ/	/dʒ/
3. ri ch	ri d ge
4. ba tch	ba d ge
/t/	/d/
5. be t	be d
6. go t	Go d
/s/	/z/
7. pla ce	play s
8. pri ce	priz e
/f/	/v/
9. sa f e	sa v e
10. proo f	pro v e

Confusing /s/ and /z/ Sounds

The s in many English words is frequently pronounced as a /z/ sound. Refer to the list in Chapter Four of common words with a /z/ sound. Other words pronounced with a /z/ sound include: husband, design, observe, always, and chose.

Confusing /v/ and /w/

All explanations and exercises for the /v/ and /w" sounds are in Chapter Four.

typical mistake:

"vine"
"very vell"

should be:

"wine"
"very well"

The /l/ Sound

Make sure you don't quickly release the tip of your tongue for the l at the end of words. This will cause you to over-pronounce the /l/. The American /l/ sound is softer and longer than the German /l/, and the tip of the tongue is more relaxed. Review the exercises for the American /l/ sound in Chapter Four.

The th Sound

Review Chapters Three and Four to learn the correct pronunciation of this sound. A common mistake is to substitute /t/ or /d/ for th. Some German speakers may also substitute an s or z for th.

typical mistake:

"tank"
"dose"
"mudder"

should be:

"thank"
"those"
"mother"

Word Pairs for Practice

Make sure that you don't pronounce the words in each pair the same way:

s	th
1. mass	math
2. pass	path
3. seem	theme
4. all so	although

The /r/ Sound

When it appears at the end of a word or before another consonant, the /r/ sound may pose some difficulties for the native German speaker. Review the explanations and exercises for the /r/ sound in Chapter Four. Make sure you pronounce the final /r/ at the end of words.

typical mistake:

"mo"
"fa"
"motha"
"ha"

should be:

"mor"
"far"
"mother"
"her"

Word Pairs for Practice

Make sure you don't pronounce these pairs of words the same:

no r	r
1. foam	form
2. moaning	morning
3. pot	part
4. tone	torn
5. cone	corn

Vowels

It is recommended that you study all of the American vowel sounds in detail. (See Chapters One and Two.) However, pay special attention to the vowel sounds highlighted below which are the most problematic ones for German speakers of English.

Confusing /æ/ and /ɛ/

You might have a tendency to confuse /æ/ (as in bad) with /ɛ/ (as in bed.) If so, you will want to review the explanations and many exercises for these sounds in Chapters One and Two. A typical mistake would be to pronounce sand and send the same way.

Word Contrasts for Practice

Make sure you pronounce the words in each pair differently.

/æ/	/ɛ/
1. flash	flesh
2. man	men
3. salary	celery
4. ex	axe
5. taxes	Texas

The /ɔ/ Sound

Be careful that your /ɔ/ sound (as in saw) is not influenced by the very different British version of this sound. In British English pause sounds almost like “pose,” but in American English it sounds much more like /paz/, and has the same /ɑ/ sound as in father or watch.

Word Contrasts for Practice

Make sure you pronounce the words in each pair differently:

/oʊ/	/ɔ/
1. low	law
2. boat	bought
3. coat	caught
4. woke	walk

The /ɪ/ Sound

You might have a tendency to pronounce /ɪ/ (as in sit) incorrectly. Make sure you pronounce the following words differently:

/ɪ/	/i/
1. sit	seat
2. live	leave
3. fill	feel

The /ə/ Sound

You might confuse /ə/ as in fun, with /ɑ/ as in hop. Practice pronouncing the following words differently:

/ɑ/	/ə/
1. shot	shut
2. lock	luck
3. cop	cup

The /ʊ/ Sound

Do not make the common error of confusing /ʊ/ as in good, with /u/ as in food. Make sure you pronounce the following words differently:

/ʊ/	/u/
1. full	fool
2. pull	pool
3. look	Luke

Indian Languages

Study the whole book, but also pay special attention to the topics outlined below. These are common areas of difficulty for Indian students of English.

Consonants

The /v/ Sound

You may have a tendency to confuse the /v/ and /w/ sounds. Be sure to review the explanations and exercises for these sounds in Chapter Four.

typical mistake:

“hwe”
“west”

should be:

“hve”
“yest”

Dropping the v in the middle or at the end of a word is also a common mistake.

common mistake:

“fai dollars”
“goment” “invloed”

should be:

“fve dollars”
“gvernment” “invvolved”

Practice Sentences

1. I hve to hve fve.
2. He will prvove that he can improve the gvernment.
3. I hve been invvolved with them for elven or twelve years.

The /r/ Sound

Learn to create the correct American /r/ sound by studying Chapter Three and by doing all of the /r/ exercises in Chapter Four. Make sure you do not roll the /r/ with the tip of your tongue, as this creates a harsh sounding Indian /r./

Indian speakers tend to roll the /r/ when it is followed by another consonant, as in bring, program, friend, or when it is in the beginning of the word as in red and right.

When the /r/ sound is at the end of the word, as in far and computer, or before another consonant, as in dark and concert, Indian speakers tend not to pronounce it at all. Remember, the /r/ is never silent in Standard American English whereas in British English it sometimes is.

typical mistake:

“mo”
“fa”
“motha”
“ha”

should be:

“more”
“far” “mothr”
“her”

Word Pairs for Practice

Make sure you don't pronounce these pairs of words the same:

no r	r
1. foam	form
2. moaning	morning
3. pot	part
4. tone	torn
5. cone	corn

The th Sound

typical mistake:	should be:
"tank"	" th ank"
"dose"	" th ose"
"mudder"	"mo th er"

Vowels

It is recommended that you study all of the American vowel sounds in detail. (See Chapters One and Two.) However, pay special attention to the vowel sounds highlighted below which are the most problematic ones for Indian speakers of English.

The /eɪ/ Sound

Indian speakers tend to pronounce /eɪ/ (as in take) as /ɛ/ or /æ/, so the word same ends up sounding like Sam. Here are some other examples of words that tend to sound the same when Indian speakers pronounce them:

typical mistake:	should be:
/ɛ/	/eɪ/
"tech"	"take"
"sell"	"sale"
"test"	"taste"
"west"	"waste"

Confusing /ɛ/ and /æ/

Reiview Chapters One and Two to master the differences between /ɛ/ as in bet and /æ/ as in bat.

/æ/	/ɛ/
1. flash	flesh
2. man	men
3. salary	celery
4. ex	axe
5. taxes	Texas
6. sand	send

The /ɔ/ Sound

Be careful that your /ɔ/ sound (as in saw) is not influenced by the very different British version of this sound. In British English pause sounds almost like “pose,” but in American English it sounds much more like /paz/, and has the same /ɑ/ sound as in father or watch.

Word Contrasts for Practice

Make sure you don’t pronounce the two words in each pair the same way:

/oʊ/	/ɔ/
1. low	law
2. boat	bought
3. coat	caught
4. woke	walk

Syllable Stress

The English spoken in India follows very different rules for syllable stress of words. Sometimes there seem to be no consistent rules, probably because of the many dialects in India that are influencing the evolution of spoken English. As a result, a variety of syllable stresses seems to be accepted. Once during an accent reduction lesson in the United States, three Indian software engineers were asked to give the correct syllable stress of the word engineer. Three different answers were given. One person was certain that the correct pronunciation was “engineer,” another student stated, “engineer,” and the third said, “engineer.”

If you speak fast and you make these types of mistakes, it will certainly be difficult for people to understand you. Learn the correct syllable stress of the words that you most commonly use. Mark the syllable that you believe should be stressed and then check your answers in the dictionary. The most common mistake is to stress the first syllable.

Here is a sample list of words that Indian speakers commonly pronounce with the wrong stress. First test out your knowledge of these words by marking the syllable that you think should be stressed, and then check your dictionary or ask a native speaker for the correct answers.

1. although	9. Europe	17. agree	25. understand
2. sophisticated	10. combination	18. variety	26. determine
3. information	11. efficient	19. eliminate	27. development
4. discuss	12. instead	20. consist	28. economical
5. develop	13. response	21. priority	29. technique
6. register	14. spontaneous	22. penalty	30. concern
7. communication	15. exactly	23. whenever	31. request
8. idea	16. colleague	24. beginning	32. already

Word Stress

Indians tend to place the most stress in the first part of a phrase or sentence, whereas Americans stress the endings more. Remember to place the most emphasis on the last content word of each sentence. Review Chapter Six for more guidance on this topic.

common mistake:

“Nice to meet you.”
“Have a nice day.”
“I have a car.”
“I don’t know.”

should be:

“Nice to meet you.”
“Have a nice day.”
“I have a car.”
“I don’t know.”

Intonation

There’s a tendency for Indian speakers to use rising or wavering intonation. Study the rules in Chapter Seven to work on this area.

Fast Speech

Indian speakers tend to speak very quickly and with a very different sentence melody. Combine that with mispronouncing some consonants and vowels, and you have a strong accent that can be difficult for Americans to understand. It is important for you to practice Chapters Five through Eight in order to master the rhythm and melody of English. Stressing content words will also help you to slow down your speech since you will be required to prolong the stressed vowels.

Indonesian

Study the whole book, but also pay special attention to the topics outline below. These are common areas of difficulty for Indonesian students of English.

Consonants

The th Sound

Review Chapters Three and Four to learn the correct pronunciation of this sound. A common mistake is to substitute a /t/ or a /d/ for the th.

typical mistake:	should be:
"tank"	" th ank"
"dose"	" th ose"

Voiced and Voiceless Consonants

Review voiced and voiceless consonants in Chapter Three. There is a tendency for Indonesian speakers to change a voiced consonant into a voiceless one.

Words Contrasts for Practice

Make sure you pronounce the words in each pair differently.

f	v
1. li f e	li v e
2. f airy	v ery
3. f ew	v iew

Words Contrasts for Practice

Pronounce the two words in each pair differently

voiceless	voiced	voiceless	voiced
1. ba c k	ba g	5. be t	be d
2. go t	Go d	6. pla c e	play s
3. ha l f	ha v e	7. bo l t	bo l d
4. hea r t	ha r d	8. ri c h	ri d ge

Confusing /s/ and /z/

The s in many English words is frequently pronounced as a /z/ sound. Learn the rules for this sound, and refer to the list of common words with a /z/ sound in Chapter Four. Other words pronounced with a /z/ sound include: huszband, dezign, obzerve, always, and choze.

Words Contrasts for Practice

Make sure you say the words in each pair differently:

- | /s/ | /z/ |
|-------------------|----------------|
| 1. S ue | z oo |
| 2. S ack | Z ack |
| 3. pie c e | pea s |
| 4. fa c e | pha s e |

Consonant Clusters

When a word contains two consonants next to each other, make sure you pronounce both of the consonants. Review Chapter Four for more help with consonant clusters.

Words for Practice

Pronounce both of the final consonants in the words below:

- | | |
|------------------|--------------------|
| 1. ju st | 6. proje ct |
| 2. a ct | 7. mixe d |
| 3. lo st | 8. pain t |
| 4. han d | 9. sen se |
| 5. pain t | 10. des ks |

Confusing /v/ and /w/

All explanations and exercises for the /v/ and /w/ sounds are in Chapter Four.

common mistake:

"vine"
"very vell"

should be:

"wine"
"very well"

The Initial h

Make sure you pronounce the /h/ sound at the beginning of words. The h is always pronounced in English except in these common words: hour, honest, honor, herb, heir, exhaust, vehicle, and ghost.

common mistake:

"she as"
"uman"

should be:

"she has"
"human"

The /r/ Sound

Learn to create the correct American /r/ sound by studying Chapter Three and by doing all of the /r/ exercises in Chapter Four. Make sure you do not roll the /r/ with the tip of your tongue, as this creates a harsh sounding Indonesian /r/.

Indonesian speakers tend to roll the /r/ when it is followed by another consonant, as in bring, program, friend, or when it is in the beginning of the word, as in red and right.

When the /r/ sound is at the end of the word, as in far and computer, or before another consonant, as in dark and concert, Indonesian speakers tend not to pronounce it at all. Remember, the /r/ is never silent in Standard American English whereas in British English it sometimes is.

typical mistake:

“mo”
“fa”
“motha”
“ha”

should be:

“more”
“far”
“mother”
“her”

Word Pairs for Practice

Make sure you don’t pronounce these pairs of words the same:

no r	r
1. foam	form
2. moaning	morning
3. pot	part
4. tone	torn
5. cone	corn

Confusing s and sh

Indonesians tend to pronounce an /s/ sound when a word contains the letters sh. Common words that pose this problem include finish, decision, physician, wish, and cash.

Words Contrasts for Practice

Make sure that you pronounce the words in each pair below differently:

“s”	“sh”
1. see	she
2. seat	sheet
3. bass	bash

Vowels

It is recommended that you study all of the American vowel sounds in detail. (See Chapters One and Two.) However, pay special attention to the vowel sounds highlighted below which are the most problematic ones for Indonesian speakers of English.

The /eɪ/ Sound

Indonesian speakers tend to pronounce /eɪ/ (as in take) as /ɛ/ or /æ/, so the word same ends up sounding like Sam. Here are some other examples of words that tend to sound the same when Indonesian speakers pronounce them:

common mistake:

/ɛ/
"tech"
"sell"
"test"
"west"

should be:

/eɪ/"take"
"sale"
"taste"
"waste"

The /ɑ/ Sound

Be careful about words spelled with an o but pronounced with an /ɑ/ sound, as in father. Common words in this category include: job, hot, God, problem, and possible.

Syllable Stress

Study Chapter Five to review the rules of syllable stress. Your tendency will be to stress the first syllable of a word. If you speak quickly and use the wrong syllable stress, your speech will be difficult to understand.

Word Stress

Indonesians tend to place the most stress in the first part of a phrase or sentence, whereas Americans stress the endings more. Remember to place the most emphasis on the last content word of each sentence. Review Chapter Six for more guidance on this topic.

common mistake:

"Nice to meet you."
"Have a nice day."
"I have a car."
"I don't know."

should be:

"Nice to meet you."
"Have a nice day."
"I have a car."
"I don't know."

Japanese

Study the whole book, but also pay special attention to the topics outlined below. These are common areas of difficulty for Japanese speakers of English.

Consonants

The /r/ Sound

Learn to pronounce the correct American /r/ sound by studying Chapter Three and by doing all the /r/ exercises in Chapter Four.

When the /r/ sound is at the end of the word, as in far and computer, or before another consonant, as in dark and concert, Japanese speakers tend not to pronounce it at all. Remember, the /r/ is never silent in Standard American English whereas in British English it sometimes is.

typical mistake:

“mo”
“fa”
“motha”
“ha”

should be:

“more”
“far”
“mother”
“her”

Word Pairs for Practice

Make sure you don’t pronounce these pairs of words the same:

no r	r
1. foam	form
2. moaning	morning
3. pot	part
4. tone	torn
5. cone	corn

Native Japanese speakers tend to confuse the /r/ and /l/ sounds. Study Chapter Three to learn the difference between these two sounds, and do all of the r and l exercises in Chapter Four. Be especially careful about the r and l when they are near each other as in: entirely, rarely, and barely. Also take special care when they are preceded by another consonant as in fly and fry.

Confusing /f/ and /h/

The Japanese sound for f is a combination of the English /f/ and /h/. Be especially careful not to pronounce fu like “hu.” Compare how an American and a Japanese person would pronounce the word Fuji. For the American /f/, make sure that your lower lip is touching your upper teeth.

Confusing /b/ and /v/

Review the exercises in Chapter Four. Remember, the /b/ sound requires the lips to be completely closed, with no air coming out, whereas the /v/ sound only involves the lower lip, which touches the upper teeth and creates a vibrating air flow. Be particularly careful with words that contain both a b and v or when these sounds are close together, as in Beverly, November, vibrate, available, I've been and very big.

The /w/ Sound

Review the section on the /w/ sound in Chapter Four. Make sure that you are producing a puff of air and that your vocal cords are vibrating as you produce this sound. Don't say "I us," say "I was." Pay special attention to the w in the middle of words and to words that begin with qu. Remember, qu sounds like /kw/ as in question. Don't say "/kɛs/ + tion," say "/kwɛs/ + tion."

Here are some commonly mispronounced words with a /w/ sound:

- | | | |
|----------------------|--|---------------------------------|
| 1. t w elve | 5. some o ne (one = " w on") | 9. some w here |
| 2. for w ard | 6. al w ays | 10. over w helmed |
| 3. qu e stion | 7. w ould | 11. qu i et |
| 4. qu i t | 8. in q uire | 12. lang u age (u = /w/) |

Confusing /ʒ/ and /dʒ/

Both the /ʒ/ sound (as in beige) and the /dʒ/ sound (as in orange) are voiced. The easiest way to fix the problem of confusing these two sounds is to practice pronouncing their voiceless pairs. First say the sh sound as in shoes and then add the vibration to the vocal cords. That will produce the /ʒ/ sound. Now say the ch sound as in choose. If you add vibration and make it voiced, that produces the /dʒ/ sound. So, if you can pronounce shoes and choose differently, you can also pronounce massage (/ʒ/) and message (/dʒ/) differently.

The th sound

Review Chapters Three and Four to learn the correct pronunciation of this sound. A common mistake is to substitute a /t/ or a /d/ for th.

common mistake:

"tank"
"dose"
"mudder"

should be:

"thank"
"those"
"mother"

Some Japanese speakers also substitute an "s" or "z" for "th."

Word Contrasts for Practice

Make sure that you don't pronounce these words the same:

- | s | th |
|-----------|----------|
| 1. mass | math |
| 2. pass | path |
| 3. seem | theme |
| 4. all so | although |

Common Vowel Errors

The “ar” words

When the /ɑ/ sound is followed by /r/, it is pronounced incorrectly by many Japanese speakers. The /ɑ/ requires the tongue to lie flat at the bottom of the mouth and the jaw to be wide open; then the tongue must be quickly curled up to move into the /r/ position. This type of unfamiliar tongue movement can be quite a challenge for Japanese speakers. Usually one of these sounds ends up being compromised and the word farm ends sounding either like “firm” or “fam.” You need to work on clearly pronouncing both sounds.

Word Contrasts for Practice

Make sure you pronounce the words in each pair below differently:

/ə/	/ɑr/
1. heard	hard
2. firm	farm
3. fir	far
4. stir	star
5. perk	park

Practice Sentences

1. I will park my car in his yard.
2. His large apartnent is not very far.
3. Mark played his guitar in the dark bar.
4. Marshall Clark will start in March.
5. I paid for the seminar with my charge card.

The /ɔ/ Sound

Be careful that your /ɔ/ sound (as in saw) is not influenced by the very different British version of this sound. In British English pause sounds almost like “pose,” but in American English it sounds much more like /paz/, and has the same /ɑ/ sound as in father or watch.

Word Contrasts for Practice

Make sure you don’t pronounce the two words in each pair the same way:

/oʊ/	/ɔ/
1. low	law
2. boat	bought
3. coat	caught
4. woke	walk

The /ɪ/ Sound

You might have a tendency to pronounce /ɪ/ (as in sit) incorrectly. Make sure you pronounce the following words differently:

/ɪ/	/i/
1. sit	seat
2. live	leave
3. fill	feel

The /ə/ Sound

You might confuse /ə/ as in fun, with /ɑ/ as in hop. Practice pronouncing the following words differently:

/ɑ/	/ə/
1. shot	shut
2. lock	luck
3. cop	cup

The /ʊ/ Sound

Do not make the common error of confusing /ʊ/ as in good, with /u/ as in food. Make sure you pronounce the following words differently:

/ʊ/	/u/
1. full	fool
2. pull	pool
3. look	Luke

Korean

Study the whole book, but also pay special attention to the topics outlined below. These are common areas of difficulty for Korean speakers of English.

Consonants

Confusing /r/ and /l/

Study Chapter Three to learn the difference between these two sounds and do all of the r and l exercises in Chapter Four. Be especially careful about the r and l when they are near each other as in: entirely, rarely, and barely.

Pronouncing Both /n/ + /l/

Because a similar tongue position is used to pronounce both /n/ and /l/, there is a tendency for Koreans to pronounce them as one when they are next to each other. Make sure you clearly pronounce both sounds in the following words:

unless olly suddenly mainly

The /w/ Sound

Here are some commonly mispronounced words with a /w/ sound:

- | | | |
|----------------------|--|----------------------------------|
| 1. t w elve | 5. some o ne (one = " w on") | 9. some w here |
| 2. for w ard | 6. al w ays | 10. over w helmed |
| 3. q u estion | 7. w ould | 11. q u iet |
| 4. q u it | 8. in q uire | 12. langu u age (u = /w/) |

Confusing /b/ and /v/

Review the exercises in Chapter Four. Remember, the /b/ sound requires the lips to be completely closed, with no air coming out, whereas the /v/ sound only involves the lower lip, which touches the upper teeth and creates a vibrating air flow. Be particularly careful with words that contain both a b and v or when these sounds are close together as in: Bverly, Nvember, vibrate, avuailable, I've been, and very big.

Confusing /p/ and /f/

Because the /f/ does not exist in Korean, there is a tendency to put the lips together and form a /p/ sound instead. This type of mistake is parallel to the /v/ and /b/ confusion, and it requires you to focus on using either two lips or just the lower lip. Be particularly careful with words that contain both a p and an f or when these two sounds are close together as in: perfect, perform, puffy, helpful, full page, and cup of coffee.

Word Contrasts for Practice

Make sure you pronounce the words in each pair below differently.

/p/	/f/
1. pore	for
2. pup	puff
3. cups	cuffs
4. plight	flight
5. a pair	a fair
6. praise	phrase

Practice Sentences

- 1. That’s a perfect performance.
- 2. I will pay up front for the fans.
- 3. I prefer to have coffee before five pm.
- 4. Do you feel that I improved my French?

Confusing /z/ and /dʒ/

The following words all have a /z/ sound but they are commonly mispronounced with a /dʒ/ sound. Review Chapter Three which discusses the correct tongue positions for these sounds.

disease	zoo	business	transition physician	thousand	desire	result
design	busy	exaggerate*	exist*

*The x in the words exaggerate and exist is pronounced as /gz/.

Word Contrasts for Practice

Make sure you pronounce the words in each pair below differently.

/dʒ/	/z/
1. Jew	zoo
2. budging	buzzing
3. jealous	zealous
4. range	rains

Confusing /ʒ/ and /dʒ/

Both the /ʒ/ (as in beige) and the /dʒ/ sound (as in orange) are voiced. The easiest way to fix the problem of confusing these two sounds is to practice pronouncing their voiceless pairs. First say the sh sound as in shoes and then add the vibration to the vocal cords. That will produce the /ʒ/ sound. Now say the ch sound as in choose. If you add vibration and make it voiced, that produces the /dʒ/ sound. So, if you can pronounce shoes and choose differently, you can also pronounce massage (/ʒ/) and message (/dʒ/) differently. Below are a few common words with the /ʒ/ sound:

usual	beige	Asian	garage
prestige	vision	occasion	regime

The th sound

Review Chapters Three and Four to learn the correct pronunciation of this sound. A common mistake is to substitute a /t/ or a /d/ for th.

common mistake:

“tank”
“dose” “mudder”

should be:

“thank”
“those”
“mother”

Vowels

It is recommended that you study all of the American vowel sounds in detail. (See Chapters One and Two.) However, pay special attention to the vowel sounds highlighted below.

Confusing /æ/ and /ɛ/

The sounds /æ/ (as in bad) and /ɛ/ (as in bed) are often confused by native Korean speakers. Review Chapters One and Two for more explanations and exercises related to these sounds.

Word Contrasts for Practice

Make sure you pronounce the words in each pair below differently.

/æ/	/ɛ/
1. flash	flesh
2. man	men
3. salary	celery
4. ex	axe
5. taxes	Texas
6. sand	send

The /ɔ/ Sound

Be careful that your /ɔ/ sound (as in saw) is not influenced by the very different British version of this sound. In British English pause sounds almost like “pose,” but in American English it sounds much more like /paz/, and has the same /ɑ/ sound as in father or watch.

Word Contrasts for Practice

Don’t pronounce the two words in each pair the same way.

/oʊ/	/ɔ/
1. low	law
2. boat	bought
3. coat	caught
4. woke	walk

Syllable Stress

There is a tendency for Koreans to stress the first syllable of words. Review Chapter Five on syllable stress and continuously practice saying longer words while checking that you are stressing the right syllable. Don't assume the first syllable is the one to be stressed.

typical mistake:

- 1. "specific"
- 2. "statistics"
- 3. "competition"
- 4. "familiar"
- 5. "secure"
- 6. "whenever"
- 7. "profession"
- 8. "consultant"

should be:

- "specific"
- "statistics"
- "competition"
- "familiar"
- "secure"
- "whenever"
- "profession"
- "consultant"

Word Stress

Just as Koreans tend to stress the first syllable of a word, they also tend to stress the first word of each sentence. Try to break this pattern. Practice the rules of word stress as outlined in Chapters Six and Seven.

common mistake:

- 1. "I agree."
- 2. "My name is..."

should be:

- "I agree."
- "My name is..."

Portuguese

Study the whole book, but also pay special attention to the topics outlined below. These are common areas of difficulty for native Portuguese speakers.

Consonants

The Final l

The Portuguese final l sounds almost like the English /w/ or /ou/ sound. Practice the l exercises in Chapter Four. Make sure that the tip of your tongue is touching the gum ridge behind your upper teeth.

typical mistake:

“Caw me”
“bow”

should be:

“call me”
“bowl”

The /s/ Sound

The Portuguese language has no word that begins with an s followed by another consonant. There is usually a vowel in front of the s. Make sure you don’t inadvertently insert an extra vowel sound when you say English words beginning with s. Here are some common words that demonstrate the “s problem.”

Portuguese:

escola Espanhol
estudar especial

English (no vowel in front):

school
Spanish study special

The th sound

Review Chapters Three and Four to learn the correct pronunciation of this sound. A common mistake is to substitute /t/ or /d/ for th.

common mistake:

“tank”
“dose” “mudder”

should be:

“thank”
“those”
“mother”

Consonant Clusters

Practice all of the exercises on consonant clusters in Chapter Four. In the Portuguese language, when there are two consonants together, such as rd or ct, a vowel usually follows. In English that is not the case. For example, Americans say “Robertt” with rt at the end. The Portuguese equivalent is “Roberto.” Here the rt cluster is followed by a vowel, making it easier to pronounce the second consonant. Because it doesn’t feel natural for Portuguese speakers to pronounce the consonant at the end, they tend to pronounce only the first consonant of the group, making the name Robert sound like “robber.” Also, card can sound like “car,” and Richard will sound like “richer.” Another good example is the English word correct, which in Portuguese is correto.

When you come across a word with two or more consonants next to each other, make sure that you pronounce every consonant. Pay special attention to past tense -ed verbs. They generally form consonant clusters as in “worked” and “watched.”

Verbs Ending in -ed

Make sure you learn to pronounce the three different -ed endings of verbs. For example, the endings of the verbs needed, opened, and passed are all pronounced differently. Review Chapter Four for more guidance on this topic.

Word Pairs for Practice

- | | |
|-------------------------------------|---|
| 1. work ed hard | 4. play ed cards |
| 2. ex tr a str en gth | 5. ex tr emely difficu lt |
| 3. lo st and fou nd | 6. wi ld wor ld |

Vowels

It is recommended that you study all of the American vowel sounds in detail. (See Chapters One and Two.) However, pay special attention to the vowel sounds highlighted below which are the most problematic ones for native Portuguese speakers.

Confusing /æ/ and /ɛ/

The sounds /æ/ (as in bad) with /ɛ/ (as in bed) are often confused by native Portuguese speakers. Review Chapters One and Two for more explanations and exercises related to these sounds.

Word Contrasts for Practice

Make sure you pronounce the words in each pair below differently.

- | /æ/ | /ɛ/ |
|-----------|--------|
| 1. flash | flesh |
| 2. man | men |
| 3. salary | celery |
| 4. ex | axe |
| 5. taxes | Texas |
| 6. sand | send |

The /ɔ/ Sound

Be careful that your /ɔ/ sound (as in saw) is not influenced by the very different British version of this sound. In British English pause sounds almost like “pose,” but in American English it sounds much more like /paz/, and has the same /ɑ/ sound as in father or watch.

Word Contrasts for Practice

Don’t pronounce the two words in each pair the same way.

/oʊ/	/ɔ/
1. low	law
2. boat	bought
3. coat	caught
4. woke	walk

The /ɪ/ Sound

You might have a tendency to pronounce /ɪ/ (as in sit) incorrectly. Make sure you pronounce the following words differently:

/ɪ/	/i/
1. sit	seat
2. live	leave
3. fill	feel

The /ə/ Sound

You might confuse /ə/ as in fun, with /ɑ/ as in hop. Practice pronouncing the following words differently:

/ɑ/	/ə/
1. shot	shut
2. lock	luck
3. cop	cup

The /ʊ/ Sound

Do not make the common error of confusing /ʊ/ as in good, with /u/ as in food. Make sure you pronounce the following words differently:

/ʊ/	/u/
1. full	fool
2. pull	pool
3. look	Luke

Reduced Vowels in Unstressed Syllables

In Portuguese vowels within unstressed syllables are pronounced fully, whereas in English they almost disappear and become a reduced schwa /ə/ sound. For further study and practice, refer to Chapter Five on syllable stress. Below are some examples of the vowel differences between the two languages.

Portuguese

doutor método urbano

English

doctor – sounds like “daktr” method – sounds like “methd” urban – sounds like “urbn”

Word Stress

In Portuguese, adjectives are stressed more than nouns are. In English it's the opposite.

typical mistake:

"That's a nice car."

"He's an intelligent man."

should be:

"That's a nice car."

"He's an intelligent man."

Similarly, Portuguese speakers tend to place the most stress in the first part of a phrase or sentence, whereas Americans stress the endings more. Remember to place the most emphasis on the last content word of each sentence. Review Chapter Six for more guidance on this topic.

typical mistake:

"I drove my car."

"I went to the bank."

should be:

"I drove my car."

"I went to the bank."

Other common word stress errors:

typical mistake:

"I should go."

"Turn it off."

"UCLA"

should be:

"I should go."

"Turn it off."

"UCLA"

Study all the rules of word stress in Chapters Five through Eight, and practice the exercises over and over.

Russian

Study the whole book, but also pay special attention to the topics outlined below. These are common areas of difficulty for native Russian speakers.

Consonants

Hard and Soft Consonants

Almost all Russian consonants come in hard/soft pairs. The soft consonant (Мягкий) is created by adding a sort of /y/ sound. In some common English words, Russian speakers tend to use the soft /n/ and /l/ when they are followed by the /i/ and /I/ vowel sounds—but /n/ and /l/ are almost always hard (Твёрдый) in English. To fix this common mistake, make sure you are using just the tip of your tongue to create the /n/ and the /l/ when they are followed by /i/ and /I/. If the middle of your tongue touches your gum ridge, it creates a soft consonant. Also, be careful not to use the soft /h/ after an /æ/ sound as in have and happy. Again, this error has to do with how much of the surface of your tongue you are using to create the sound.

Words for Practice

Don’t use a soft /n/ when pronouncing the following common words.

- | | |
|-------------------------|-----------------------|
| 1. an y | 6. an ything |
| 2. m one y | 7. ne ar |
| 3. ge ne ral | 8. ma n y |
| 4. Chi ne se | 9. begin n ing |
| 5. commu n icate | 10. N ick |

More Words for Practice

Don’t use a soft /l/ with the following common words.

- | | |
|---------------------|----------------------|
| 1. be lie ve | 3. rea ll y |
| 2. ana ly st | 4. actu al ly |

Voiced and Voiceless Consonants

Review voiced and voiceless consonants in Chapter Three. There is a tendency for Russian speakers to change the final voiced consonant into a voiceless one.

common mistake:	should be:
“f i fe”	f i ve

Word Contrasts for Practice

Make sure you pronounce the two words in each pair below differently.

- | voiceless | voiced |
| /k/ | /g/ |
| 1. ba ck | ba g |
| 2. pi ck | pi g |

/tʃ/	/dʒ/
3. ri ch	ridge
4. ba tch	ba dge
/t/	/d/
5. be t	be d
6. go t	Go d
/s/	/z/
7. pla ce	play s
8. pri ce	priz e
/f/	/v/
9. sa f e	sa v e
10. proo f	pro v e

The th sound

Review Chapters Three and Four to learn the correct pronunciation of this sound. A common mistake is to substitute a /t/ or a /d/ for th.

common mistake:	should be:
"ta n k"	" th ank"
"do s e"	" th ose"
"mu d der"	"mo th er"

Confusing /v/ and /w/

All explanations and exercises for the /v/ and /w/ sounds are in Chapter Four.

common mistake:	should be:
" v ine"	" w ine"
"very v ell"	"very w ell"

The /r/ sound

Learn to pronounce the correct American /r/ sound by studying Chapter Three, and by doing all the /r/ exercises in Chapter Four. Make sure you do not roll the /r/ with the tip of your tongue, as this creates a harsh sounding Russian /r/.

Russian speakers tend to roll the /r/ particularly when it is followed by another consonant, as in bring, program, friend, or when it is in the beginning of the word, as in red and right.

When the /r/ sound is at the end of the word, as in farr and computer, or before another consonant, as in dark and concert, Russian speakers do not pronounce it at all. Remember, the /r/ is never silent in Standard American English, whereas in British English it sometimes is.

typical mistake:

“mo”
“fa”
“motha”
“ha”

should be:

“more”
“far”
“mother”
“her”

Word Pairs for Practice

Make sure you don’t pronounce these pairs of words the same:

no r	r
1. foam	form
2. moaning	morning
3. pot	part
4. tone	torn
5. cone	corn

Pronouncing ing

Over-pronouncing ing is another common mistake Russian speakers make. Be sure not to release the /g/ sound in words that end with ing, such as going and doing. Also make sure that you don’t change the /g/ into a voiceless /k/ sound. Review the rules for this sound in Chapter Four.

Vowels

It is recommended that you study all of the American vowel sounds in detail. (See Chapters One and Two.) However, pay special attention to the vowel sounds highlighted below which are the most problematic for Russian speakers.

The /ɔ/ Sound

Be careful that your /ɔ/ sound (as in saw) is not influenced by the very different British version of this sound. In British English pause sounds almost like “pose,” but in American English it sounds much more like /paz/, and has the same /ɑ/ sound as in father or watch.

Word Contrasts for Practice

Don’t pronounce the two words in each pair below the same way.

/oʊ/	/ɔ/
1. low	law
2. boat	bought
3. coat	caught
4. woke	walk

Words Spelled with o

English words spelled with o are particularly difficult for Russian speakers since o is usually pronounced as /ɑ/ as in stop and hot, but it can also be pronounced as /ə/ as in love and Monday or even as /ou/ as in so and only.

Another common mistake is to pronounce a final o as /ə/ or /ɑ/. Make sure it’s pronounced as /ou/ instead.

typical mistake:

/ɑ/

“Mexica”

“San Francisca”

should be:

/ou/

“Mexico”

“San Francisco”

The /I/ Sound

You might have a tendency to pronounce /I/ (as in sit) incorrectly. Make sure you pronounce the following words differently:

/I/

1. sit

2. live

3. fill

seat

feel

The /ə/ Sound

You might confuse /ə/ as in fun, with /ɑ/ as in hop. Practice pronouncing the following words differently:

/ɑ/

1. shot

2. lock

3. cop

shut

luck

cup

The /ʊ/ Sound

Do not make the common error of confusing /ʊ/ as in good, with /u/ as in food. Make sure you pronounce the following words differently:

/ʊ/

1. full

2. pull

3. look

/u/fool

pool

Luke

Spanish

Study the whole book, but also pay special attention to the topics outlined below. These are common areas of difficulty for native Spanish speakers.

Consonants

Consonant Clusters

Practice all of the exercises on consonant clusters in Chapter Four. In the Spanish language, when there are two consonants together, such as rd or ct, a vowel usually follows. In English that is not the case. For example, Americans say Robert with “rt” at the end. The Spanish equivalent is “Roberto”—the rt cluster is followed by a vowel, making it easier to pronounce the second consonant. Because it doesn’t feel natural to Spanish speakers to pronounce the consonant at the end, they tend to pronounce only the first consonant of the group, making the name Robert sound like “robber.” Also, card can sound like “car,” and Richard will sound like “richer.” Another good example is the English word correct, which in Spanish is “correcto.”

When you come across a word with two or more consonants next to each other, make sure that you pronounce every consonant. Pay special attention to past tense -ed verbs. They generally form consonant clusters as in worked and watched.

Word Pairs for Practice

Be sure to pronounce every consonant in the words below.

1. worked hard
4. played cards
2. extra strength
5. extremely difficult*
3. lost and found
6. wild world

Verbs Ending in -ed

Make sure you learn to pronounce the three different -ed endings of verbs. For example, the endings of the verbs needed, opened, and passed are all pronounced differently. Review Chapter Four for more guidance on this topic.

typical mistake:

“I work yesterday.”

should be:

“I worked yesterday.”

The th Sound

Review Chapters Three and Four to learn the correct pronunciation of this sound. A common mistake is to substitute a /t/ or a /d/ for th.

common mistake:

“tank”
“dose” “mudder”

should be:

“thank”
“those”
“mother”

Confusing “b” and “v”

Because the Spanish b and v are pronounced the same, many Spanish speakers of English pronounce the words very and berry or curve and curb the same. You can practice these sounds in detail in Chapter Four.

Confusing /dʒ/ and /y/

The Spanish ll as in the words silla, is usually pronounced like the English /dʒ/ and /y/ put together or, in certain Spanish dialects, like the /y/ sound. You need to learn the difference between these two English sounds. Otherwise, you might end up saying “I’m going to jail,” when you wanted to say “I’m going to Yale.”

For the /dʒ/ sound, the tip of the tongue quickly touches the gum ridge and then releases. The sides of the tongue are against the upper teeth. For the /y/ sound, the tip of the tongue is down touching the bottom teeth.

Word Contrasts for Practice

Make sure you pronounce the two words in each pair differently.

/dʒ/	/y/
1. jet	yet
2. Jew	you
3. joke	yolk
4. jam	yam
5. major	mayor
6. juice	use

Confusing sh and ch

Remember, sh or /ʃ/ requires a continuous air flow coming out through the tongue. For the /tʃ/ sound (ch), however, the tip of the tongue blocks the air flow.

Word Contrasts for Practice

/ʃ/	/tʃ/
1. shoes	choose
2. share	chair
3. wash	watch
4. cash	catch
5. sheet	cheat
6. wish	witch
7. mash	match
8. washing	watching

Take note of the following exceptions. These words are spelling with ch but are pronounced with a sh or /ʃ/ sound. These words are mostly French in origin.

1. chef	4. chandelier	7. Chicago
2. machine	5. champagne	8. Michigan
3. chic	6. chauffeur	9. Chevrolet

Dialogues for Practice

- 1. a. Which shoes should she choose?
b. She should purchase the cheaper shoes.
- 2. a. Where are Shawn and Charlie?
b. Charlie's in church and Shawn's in the kitchen washing dishes.
- 3. a. Should I switch the channel?
b. Don't switch the channel. I'm watching the show.
- 4. a. What's the cheapest way to ship the chips?
b. It's much cheaper to ship the chips by ship.
- 5. a. These peaches are delicious.
b. Do you wish to share them with each of us?

The /m/ Sound

When speaking quickly, Spanish speakers often don't fully close their lips to produce the /m/ sound especially when it is in the middle of or at the end of a word. Therefore, From mtime to mtime can end up sounding like: fron mtime to mtime. Also, the word sometimes can sound like sonetmine. Make sure you don't confuse m with an /n/ sound.

Words for Practice

Be sure to fully pronounce the /m/ sound in the words below.

- | | |
|---|-----------------------------|
| 1. I' m | 4. so m e |
| 2. f ro m | 5. t i m e |
| 3. so m e t i m es | 6. mini m u m |

The /s/ Sound

The Spanish language has no word that begins with an s followed by another consonant. There is usually a vowel in front of the s. Make sure you don't inadvertantly insert an extra vowel sound when you say English words beginning with s. Here are some common words that demonstrate the s problem .

Spanish:

escuela
español estudiar
Esteban

English (no vowel in front):

school
Spanish
study
Steven

Confusing /s/ and /z/

The s in many English words is frequently pronounced as a /z/ sound. Learn the rules for this and refer to the list of common words with a /z/ sound in Chapter Four. Other words pronounced with a /z/ sound include huszband, deszign, obzerve, always, and choze. Also, note that in Spanish, a z is pronounced as an /s/ sound. This is not the case in English.

Word Contrasts for Practice

Make sure you say the two words in each pair below differently.

/s/	/z/
1. piece	peas
2. face	phase
3. bus	buzz
4. price	prize

Vowels

Since Spanish has a lot fewer vowel sounds than English, you will need to review all of the American vowel sounds in Chapters One and Two. Also pay special attention to the vowel sounds highlighted below which are the most problematic ones for native Spanish speakers.

Words Spelled with o

English words spelled with o are particularly difficult for Spanish speakers since o is usually pronounced as /ɑ/ as in stop and hot, but it can also be pronounced as /ə/ as in love and Monday or even as /ou/ as in so and only. Study Chapter 2 in detail.

The /ɪ/ Sound

You might have a tendency to pronounce /ɪ/ (as in sit) incorrectly. Make sure you pronounce the following words differently:

/ɪ/	/i/
1. sit	seat
2. live	leave
3. fill	feel

The /ə/ Sound

You might confuse /ə/ as in fun, with /ɑ/ as in hop. Practice pronouncing the following words differently:

/ɑ/	/ə/
1. shot	shut
2. lock	luck
3. cop	cup

The /ʊ/ Sound

Do not make the common error of confusing /ʊ/ as in good, with /u/ as in food. Make sure you pronounce the following words differently:

/ʊ/	/u/
1. full	fool
2. pull	pool
3. look	Luke

Reduced Vowels in Unstressed Syllables

In Spanish all the vowels are pronounced fully, whereas in English vowels in unstressed syllables almost disappear and become a reduced schwa /ə/ sound. For example, the word doctor exists in both languages. In Spanish both of the o sounds are pronounced the same way. In English, the word sounds like “doctr.” The second o is changed to a short, reduced /ə/ sound because it’s part of the unstressed syllable. For further study and practice, refer to Chapter Five on syllable stress. Below are some examples of the vowel differences between the two languages.

Spanish:

normal popular

English (no vowel in front):

color – sounds like “colr” normal – sounds like “norml” popular – sound like “populr”

Word Stress

In Spanish, adjectives are stressed more than nouns are. In English it’s the opposite.

typical mistake:

“That’s a nice car.”
“He’s an intelligent man.”

should be:

“That’s a nice car.”
“He’s an intelligent man.”

Similarly, Spanish speakers tend to place the most stress in the first part of a phrase or sentence, whereas Americans stress the endings more. Remember to place the most emphasis on the last content word of each sentence. Review Chapter Six for more guidance on this topic.

typical mistake:

“I drove my car.”
“I went to the bank.”

should be:

“I drove my car.”
“I went to the bank.”

Other common word stress errors:

typical mistake:

“I should go.”
“Turn it off.”
“UCLA”

should be:

“I should go.”
“Turn it off.”
“UCLA”

Study all the rules of word stress in Chapters Five through Eight, and practice the exercises over and over.

Vietnamese

Study the whole book, but also pay special attention to the topics outlined below. These are common areas of difficulty for native Vietnamese speakers.

Consonants

Voiced and Voiceless Consonants

There is a tendency for Vietnamese speakers to change voiced consonants into voiceless ones. Review voiced and voiceless consonants in Chapter Three.

Pay special attention to words with g particularly when the g is followed by an r as in great and graduate. Make sure that you fully release the back of your tongue after it touches the back of the mouth so that the g can be clearly heard. Otherwise, great may sound like “crate” or even “rate.”

typical mistake:

“fife” “crass”

should be:

“five”
“grass”

Word Contrasts for Practice

Make sure you pronounce the two words in each pair below differently.

voiceless	voiced
/k/	/g/
1. C raig	G reg
2. c row	g row
3. pi ck	pi g
4. ba ck	ba g
/tʃ/	/dʒ/
5. ri ch	ri d ge
6. ch oke	jo g e
7. ba tc h	ba dg e
8. ch oice	Jo g yce
/t/	/d/
9. be t	be d
10. go t	Go d
11. bo lt	bo ld
12. hea rt	ha rd

/s/	/z/
13. place	plays
14. price	prize
15. loss	laws
16. racer	razor
/f/	/v/
17. fan	van
18. safe	save
19. proof	prove
20. infest	invest

The th Sound

Review Chapters Three and Four to learn the correct pronunciation of this sound. A common mistake is to substitute a /t/ or a /d/ for th.

typical mistake:	should be:
"tank"	" th ank"
"dose"	" th ose"

The /n/ Sound

Pay special attention to n when it is in the middle or at the end of a word. When the tip of your tongue makes contact with the gum ridge, make sure that you are continuing to produce sound by allowing air to come out through your nose. Otherwise your n will be silent.

Words for Practice

1. o ne	4. ma n	7. n ine	10. n ineteen
2. i nvent	5. co n vent	8. prou n ce	11. co n tent
3. f inancial	6. att e n n ion	9. me n tion	12. co n so n ant

Vietnamese speakers also tend to drop the n before another consonant. To fix this error, make sure that you fully produce n before you begin saying the following consonant. Feel the vibration of air in your nose as the tip of your tongue touches the gum ridge. Common mispronounced words include understandnd, friendnd, instantnt, importannce, and sense.

Word Contrasts for Practice

Make sure that you pronounce the two words in each pair below differently.

- | | |
|---------|--------|
| 1. Fred | friend |
| 2. met | meant |
| 3. lad | land |
| 4. sad | sand |

Confusing /n/ and /l/

Make sure you do not confuse /n/ and /l/, especially with words like analysis or only that contain both of these sounds. The primary difference between the two sounds is the location of the air flow. For /n/ the air is coming out through your nose, whereas for /l/ the air is coming out through the sides of your mouth. The tongue position is very similar for these two sounds except the tip of the tongue is a bit flatter for the /n/. For the /l/, the jaw needs to open more to create space for the air to come out through the sides of the mouth. Be careful with words such as only and unless.

The “r” Sound

Learn to pronounce the correct American /r/ sound by studying Chapter Three and by doing all the /r/ exercises in Chapter Four. Remember, the /r/ is never silent in Standard American English, whereas in British English it sometimes is.

typical mistake:

“mo”
“fa”
“motha”
“ha”

should be:

“more”
“far”
“mother”
“her”

Word Pairs for Practice

Make sure you don’t pronounce these pairs of words the same:

- | no r | r |
|------------|---------|
| 1. foam | form |
| 2. moaning | morning |
| 3. pot | part |
| 4. tone | torn |
| 5. cone | corn |

Consonant Clusters

There’s a tendency for Vietnamese speakers to pronounce only the first consonant in a group or cluster. Therefore, card can sound like “car” and *extra can sound like “estra.” When there are two or more consonants next to each other, make sure you pronounce every consonant. Review the section on consonant clusters in Chapter Four.

one consonant:

“Where’s your car?”
“They ask about it.”

two consonants:

“Where’s your card?”
“They askeded about it.”

*Remember, the letter x represents two sounds: /ks/

When an s is followed by a consonant, make sure you pronounce the /s/. Otherwise the word sister will sound like “sitter.”

Final Consonants

Make sure you pronounce all of the final sounds of words, particularly those ending in s, v, k, d, and t.

Vowels

It is recommended that you study all of the American vowel sounds in detail. (See Chapters One and Two.) However, pay special attention to the vowel sounds highlighted below which are the most problematic ones for Vietnamese speakers.

Confusing /æ/ and /ɛ/

The sounds /æ/ (as in bad) and /ɛ/ (as in bed) are often confused by native Vietnamese speakers. Review Chapters One and Two to master the differences between these two sounds.

Word Contrasts for Practice

Make sure you pronounce the words in each pair below differently.

/æ/	/ɛ/
1. flash	flesh
2. man	men
3. salary	celery
4. ex	axe
5. taxes	Texas
6. sand	send

The /ɔ/ Sound

Be careful that your /ɔ/ sound (as in saw) is not influenced by the very different British version of this sound. In British English pause sounds almost like “pose,” but in American English it sounds much more like /paz/, and has the same /ɑ/ sound as in father or watch.

Word Contrasts for Practice

Don’t pronounce the two words in each pair below the same way.

/oʊ/	/ɔ/
1. low	law
2. boat	bought
3. coat	caught
4. woke	walk

The /eɪ/ Sound

Vietnamese speakers commonly pronounce /eɪ/ as /ɛ/ or as /æ/. This makes the pronunciation of pain, pen, and pan all sound the same. Also, sale and sell will often sound the same when pronounced by a Vietnamese speaker. The words take, available, break, and famous are also commonly mispronounced.

Word Contrasts for Practice

Make sure you pronounce the words in each pair below differently.

/ɛ/	/eɪ/
1. sell	sale
2. well	whale
3. tell	tale
4. men	main
5. pen	pain
6. plan	plain

Linking

Vietnamese speakers of English tend to pronounce each word separately, which makes their speech sound choppy and mechanical. The section on linking in Chapter Eight is one of the most important things to study to help you sound more American.
